Anti-Castro Counterfeit Ring Broken

Counterrevolutionary Movement Allegedly Printed $1 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Six Cubans and a Puerto Rican have been indicted by a federal grand jury in connection with a $1 million counterfeiting ring ostensibly raising funds for anti-Castro activities.

Those indicted Monday included Jesus Gonzalez Carta, 44, a member of the Cuban Congress during the Batista regime: and Sererino Perez Carril, 45, former manager of the bankrupt periodical El Mundo Americano published here.

Sergio Castro, 46, no relation to Prime Minister Fidel Castro, was said to have been the group's ringleader. Officials said he fled Cuba after leading a band of rebels against Castro.

The other defendants are German Castanera, 40, of Bergenfield, N.J., who was born in Puerto Rico; Alberto Cepero, 35; Mrs. Tamara Pinto, 26; and Nelson Sigler Oropesa, 26, also known as Charlie Cuba.

Approached Printer

Asst. U.S. Atty. J. Edward Meyer III said Carta, Carril and Castro approached Castanera, an experienced printer, early last year and asked him to make counterfeit notes to raise money for a counterrevolution in Cuba.

Meyer said Castanera delivered the $100, $50 and $20 bills—made by photo-offset—in lots of $100,000 and they were stored in various apartments.

The fake money first turned up in Baltimore during the World Series last October and subsequently in Miami and New York, he said.

Some $427,000 of the counterfeit bills were seized in two apartments last March, the prosecutor said. He said some of the money was sold at 8 to 12 per cent of its face value.

Thieu Says Extra Force Not Enough

Claims More Troops Could Shorten War

SAIGON (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu said today more allied soldiers are needed in South Vietnam to win the war. He indicated he believes the 45,000 to 50,000 additional U.S. troops President Johnson intends to send by next June 30 will not be enough.

"We have to accept that," Thieu said. "But if we have more it's better.

"We still need more troops. We have not enough troops to clear all the Viet Cong bases at the same time . . . to occupy the whole (South Vietnamese) territory and to stay long enough with the people in the villages to provide them with enough security to support our pacification program.

"If we have more troops we can shorten the war."

Afield, U.S. Green Beret Special Forces men and South Vietnamese irregulars believed outnumbered 4 to 1 counted 116 enemy dead after repelling a North Vietnamese mortar and ground attack on their camp near the Cambodian border.

Casualties among the 500 defenders and their families at Tong Le Chou were termed moderate, meaning they were hit hard. It was not known if any of the dozen or so American advisers were casualties.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said the 165th North Vietnamese Regiment, believed to number some 2,000 men, attacked the camp 54 miles northwest of Saigon early Monday and fighting raged for many hours.

Capture Weapons

The South Vietnamese reported they captured 35 hand weapons, three .50-caliber machine guns and one heavy machine gun.

In the air war, 167 missions were flown against North Vietnam Monday, including an attack on the repeatedly hit Loi Dong storage area four miles northwest of the port of Haiphong. But bad weather limited most of the attacks to the southern Panhandle.

Another F4C Phantom jet was brought down by ground fire in the Panhandle, and both crewmen were missing. It was the 638th U.S. combat plane reported lost over North Vietnam and the 38th in the past month.

Allied Win Predicted By Defector

SAIGON (AP) — A Communist defector introduced by the South Vietnamese government as a lieutenant colonel said today the allies will win the war, perhaps in two or three years.

"The last victory will belong to the government and the allies," Huynh Cu told a news conference.

Though intelligence estimates of enemy strength within South Vietnam have remained for weeks at about 296,000, Cu said it is difficult these days for the Viet Cong to recruit new men.

Speaking through a Vietnamese army English-language interpreter, Cu said one district he was familiar with in the northern province of Quang Ngai had a quota of 100 recruits in the first three months of this year, but only three were found.

Dislikes Communists

"Most of the young men had left the district," he said. "The rest did not like the Communists, or they said they were sick and in bad physical condition."

Cu, 39, was said to have commanded every size Viet Cong unit from squad to battalion. He said he has been a Communist since 1946 and fought the French with the Viet Minh.

Born in Quang Ngai Province, he returned from the north in 1963. He said his duties, writing tactical manuals, training, kept him in the mountains of the northern sector. He had made only two trips to the coastal plain and on the second, in March, he turned himself over to government troops along with his wife and adopted son.

Asked to compare the troops he fought against, Cu said the Americans have tremendous firepower.

"The soldiers have harmony with their airplanes," he said. "They have favorable conditions to fight."

Heavy Casualties

Remembering a regiment-size Viet Cong ambush, Cu said: "The Americans were calm. They attacked our strong side and inflicted heavy casualties."

However, Cu said, the American soldier is slow on his feet, not because of his big pack, but "because he is so big himself."

Cu said the South Korean troops are perhaps the toughest. He recalled a Viet Cong attack against a Korean company in which 200 Viet Cong were killed.

"They were brave and experienced in hand to hand combat. They were good shots," he said.

City Has Choice

Girlie Show or Taxes

GREENUP, Ky. (AP)—A group of citizens protesting a bump-and-grind show at the annual county fair have been warned of an imminent tax hike if the hootchy-kootchy is canceled in 1967.

The City Council met Monday and left it up to the volunteer fire department whether to keep the show. The department runs the fair each year.

But a council spokesman said the firemen would lose about $1,200 if it cancels the girlie show—by far the fair's most popular event.

The $1,200 buys firefighting equipment each year, he said, and a tax would have to be substituted for the profitable dance.

More Detroit Arrests Due

Policemen Plead Innocent To Two Charges of Murder

DETROIT (AP) — Officials say more arrests are likely in the case of two white Detroit policemen charged with murdering two Negro teen-agers in a motel at the peak of the city's riot.

Prosecutor William Cahalan of Wayne County said he expects more warrants to be issued in connection with the shotgun killings, "but not murder warrants." He indicated conspiracy charges might be filed against some of those present when the shootings occurred.

The patrolmen, Ronald August, 28, and Robert Paille, 32, pleaded innocent at their arraignments Monday. They were jailed without bond.

August is accused of killing Aubrey Pollard, 19. Paille is charged with killing Fred Temple, 18.

Morning Raid

A number of witnesses have said the youths were slain during an early morning raid by police and National Guardsmen searching for snipers at the Algiers Motel in midtown Detroit on July 26, three days after rioting began.

A third Negro, Carl Cooper, 17, also was found killed by blasts from a 12-gauge shotgun in the motel.

But Cahalan said he lacked evidence on claims that Cooper may have been shot by a uniformed man.

Cahalan said he recommended the warrants against August and Paille as the result of statements from 80 persons and a 30-page report compiled by an 18-man Detroit police homicide bureau team.

Cahalan refused to reveal what the statements or the report said.

Results of the investigation have been turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation "for consideration of possible violation of federal law," Cahalan said.

Pollard, Temple and Cooper originally were listed in police reports as suspected snipers "killed in exchange of gunfire."

A number of persons who said they were in the motel on the night of the shootings claimed they were lined up against a wall, beaten with gun butts and threatened with death by the raiding officers.

Fuel Blast Rips City In Louisiana

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — A powerful explosion erupted at the Cities Service Co. refinery here early today shattering plate glass windows in surrounding business districts and injuring 10 persons. Four workmen were reported missing.

Flames covered a block area at the sprawling complex on the West Bank of the Calcasieu River in extreme southwestern Louisiana.

The injured were taken to two hospitals. Five were later released. Only one of those remaining was listed in serious condition.

Intense heat kept firefighters from entering the area which was roped off for fear of secondary explosions.

Killed in Action

Army Spec. 4 Richard C. Ferdig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ferdig of rural Frederic, Polk County, was killed in recent Vietnam action, the Defense Department said.

6 Injured in Disturbance

Negroes Enter Lower House, Protest Defeat of 'Rat' Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group from New York's Harlem, invading the House galleries to protest noisily for a federal rat control proposal, clashed with Capitol police.

At least six persons were injured in the disturbance Monday, which erupted shortly after the House adjourned a routine session.

The group entered the public galleries and—as a few remaining House members fled the floor—began shouting protests against House action last month in killing the administration's antirat bill.

But police stepped in quickly and broke up the chanting, clapping demonstration by the predominantly Negro group amid screams, curses and flying fists.

There were reports that at least four New Yorkers and two policemen suffered minor injuries during the incident, which lasted less than an hour.

Eight of the estimated 95 demonstrators were arrested, charged with disorderly conduct and released after posting $10 bond.

'Don't Need Riot Bill'

"Rats cause riots," the group chanted while sitting in the gallery. "We don't need a riot bill. We need a rat bill."

Police said one demonstrator carried a large rat in a cage.

Jesse Gray, Harlem rent strike leader who was among those arrested, said after posting bond that the group came here to "demand passage of the rat bill but in turn our heads were beaten in and we were run out of Congress."

Most of the demonstrators returned to their New York homes by special bus but a delegation was left behind to pursue the rat bill situation.

The House, after a raucous debate that found many members cracking jokes about the measure, refused to consider the rat bill, which would have supplied $40 million over two years. It may come up later, possibly as part of a housing package now under review in the Senate.

Post-Crescent Reporter Views Scene

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — What nearly everyone said couldn't happen here happened Monday. A near riot took place under the dome of the Capitol of the United States.

It all started just minutes after the house had adjourned. Half an hour later one Capitol policeman was hospitalized, several were treated for minor injuries and six Negro men and two Negro women were arrested.

The chamber of the House of Representatives was barely empty of congressmen and pages when between 75 and 100 Negro men and women stormed into a gallery, knocking down the doorman.

Carrying placards reading "Rats Make Riots," the group starting swinging the placards and chanting under the direction of a group leader, "Rats make riots . . . "

About the only ones who witnessed the demonstration was a scattering of reporters in the nearby gallery.

One of the leaders of the group, who later was arrested, was Jesse Gray, who led a 1963 Harlem rent strike and in 1964 threatened to tie up the opening of the New York World Fair with a massive stall-in.

Two years ago Gray founded a group known as the Organization for Black Power.

Screaming, Hollering

As Gray was taken out of the gallery, the group ran out screaming and hollering. I left the press gallery to see what was happening.

I was stopped by a plain clothesman from the metropolitan police force who told me women were not allowed in the area. I argued that I was a reporter and was not afraid of the Negroes but he remained firm and I turned around and returned to the gallery, muttering to myself about discrimination of women.

I went back into the gallery in time to see a Negro woman in a white-green flowered dress lean over the railing and yell at no one in particular, "You s.o.b., you ought to bring that damn Johnson here."

Male reporters allowed to go where the action was came back with a story of policemen being attacked by women as well as men. One policeman was bitten in the elbow,

Disappeared Sunday

Missing Pennsylvania Girl, 12, Found Dead

GIRARD, Pa. (AP) — The partially clothed body of little Connie Rae Carstater, missing since Sunday in swamplands near her home, was found today, and a deputy coroner said she was murdered.

Minutes later state police took one of the searchers into custody for questioning. They declined to identify him.

Deputy Coroner Leo Weir said the body of the 12-year-old girl was found face down in about a foot of water. It had been covered with leaves and branches in a dense thicket about 100 yards from a highway.

The child had pedaled her bicycle to a grocery store three miles from her home Sunday, cashed a $2 check she was given Saturday for her 12th birthday, purchased some candy and fishing equipment, then disappeared.

Her bicycle and bag of purchases were found in bushes 300 feet from a road about one-half mile from her home. A state trooper said it was improbable Connie Rae rode her bike into the rough bushes.

"It looks like it was carried back and then thrown into the brush," he said.

Connie Rae's mother, Janet, separated from her husband, notified state police when the youngster failed to return home some two hours after her shopping trip.

Word From the Top

Milwaukee Police Blamed for Rising Tensions, Now Praised

MILWAUKEE (AP) — 'Be sure of your targets. Be sure of your targets," the police radio warned July 31 as police began moving against suspected snipers in the racially troubled inner core.

A policeman sat in his squad car and heard a fellow officer radio back that he was about to rush a house that possibly was a hiding place for a rifleman.

"All that . . . fire power available, and they're going to rush the place," the policeman said in disgust.

The word had obviously come from the top—beware of harming the innocent; avoid the incident that could make a harrowing situation even worse.

Until the fatal shooting of a suspected firebomber Wednesday night, police had largely avoided the incident that could make passions even hotter.

Reporters who had seen police crack in similar circumstances in Newark and Detroit marveled at the discipline of Milwaukee's force.

Before violence erupted, police were pegged as the villain of the deteriorating Milwaukee racial scene.

An Associated Press spot check of opinion in core taverns last spring showed deep hostility toward the police.

Negroes assailed policemen for addressing them as "boy" or "hey you" and recounted incident after incident in which police misunderstanding added to an already unbearable load of bitterness.

"They ain't got much smarts," said a man with a master's degree, who told of being stopped by police just for driving in a white neighborhood at night.

Another man told of two people he knew who got stopped at different times for driving without their license in their possession. One man, who was white, was sent home. he said. The other man, who was a Negro, was jailed.

Predictions were general that if a riot did come, it would be caused by a police incident.

But there was no police incident that triggered the July 30 riot.

And some observers believe it was restrained police force that brought the riot under control so soon.

It was also the police that kept armed whites from moving into the Negro areas during the height of the crisis.

Milwaukee has 1,900 policemen. After one night's riot one of them was dead, found in the ruins of a burned house.

Patrolman John Carter, 25, was blind in one eye and in danger of losing his sight in the other. Carter had rushed the house.

"If I thought losing both my eyes would solve Milwaukee's problems, I would be pleased," he said. "But losing my eyes isn't going to solve anything."

Carter, who became a policeman because of "just wanting to help people," added a thought about the role of police. "Police departments are looked at as causing our problems, problems in housing, problems in schools. When things happen, when riots start, people are naturally going to take it out on the police. He's the first one on the scene."

An east side service station owner took note of a march protesting the fatal shooting of the Negro youth.

"What about the dead cop?" he asked. "Who's protesting what happened to him?"

several had their lips cracked open and one was attacked by a Negro and, during his attempts to get the crowd out of the Capitol, was injured and started coughing blood. He was taken to nearby Bethesda Naval Hospital for treatment.

Speaker of the House John W. McCormick watched from the Capitol steps as Negroes were herded into buses. He remarked that the ringleaders should be arrested, which they were.

Posted Bonds

It wasn't long after the arrests, however, that they posted bonds and were released.

Before returning to New York, Jesse Gray had told the reporters that he and a Washington civil rights advocate would return to Washington next Monday with what Gray called a "mass of people," who would arrange to "relocate" some of the rats quartered in New York's ghettoes to the nation's capital.

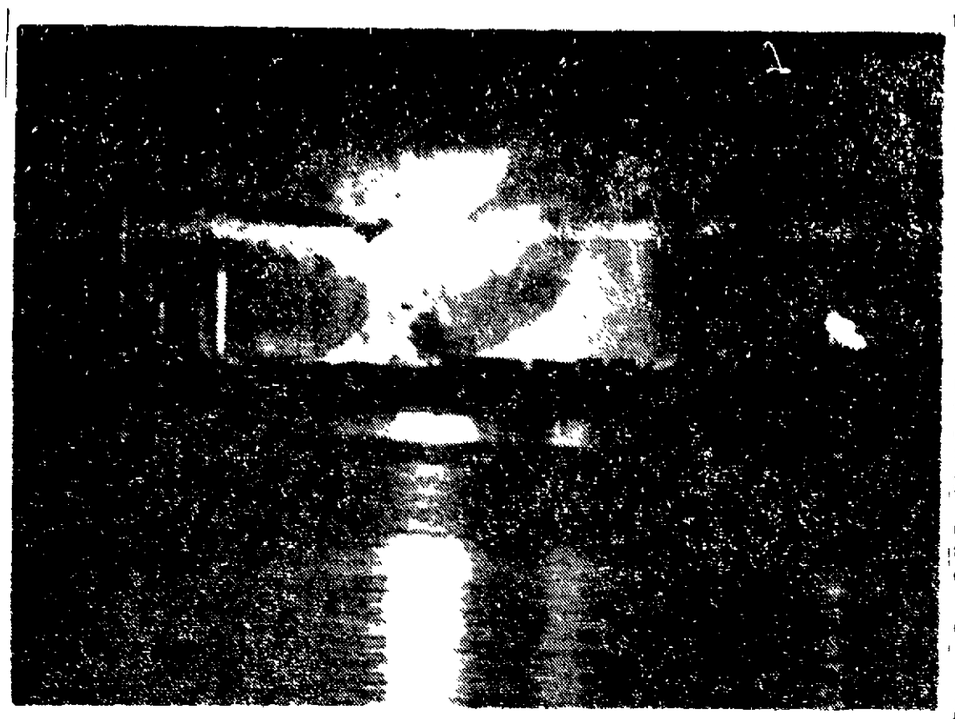

One of the few amusing sidelights of the demonstration was the fact that Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, and other members of the House Ways and Means Committee, were having a conference in the committeeroom on the gallery floor of the Capitol and didn't even know that a near riot was taking place.

"I don't know why we didn't hear all the screaming and yelling," Byrnes said. "Either we were concentrating awfully hard or that committeeroom is soundproof, because the demonstration took place less than 50 feet from our door."

He called the demonstration preposterous and said it would do the cause of the Harlemites more harm than good.

Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Marshfield, had this to say about the rat bill which the Harlem group was espousing and which was defeated in the House about two weeks ago:

"The rat bill would have authorized $20 million for this year and the same amount next year. With so few dollars available the program could, at best, have served only 2½ per cent of the nation's population and only a little better than one-half of 1 per cent of the country's 18,000 communities."

Hearings Start Monday

Potential $29 Billion Budget Deficit Expected as Argument for Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government witnesses are expected to use the potential size of the budget deficit—up to $29 billion—as their main argument in urging congressional approval of higher income taxes.

This blueprint emerged today as Treasury and budget experts drafted testimony for next Monday's opening hearing by the House Ways and Means Committee on President Johnson's plan for a 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate taxes.

Henry H. Fowler, secretary of the Treasury, is the first scheduled witness.

Other arguments—higher Vietnam war costs, the danger of inflation and high interest rates—also are expected to be cited in administration testimony.

Top Argument

But the top argument will center on the potential deficit, sources said.

One top official said he expects a round of speeches and fireworks against the President's plan but once these are over Congress will have no reasonable choice except to raise taxes.

He said it's impossible to cut spending enough to make a tax increase unnecessary, as some Republicans are contending.

In proposing a 10 per cent surcharge, Johnson fixed the size of the deficit for the current fiscal year at between $14 and $18 billion depending on the size of spending cuts.

This figure, however, includes the $6.3 billion in revenue expected from the surcharge proposed for individual income taxes beginning Oct. 1 and for corporation taxes retroactive to July 1.

Other contingencies could raise the potential deficit as high as $29 billion, Johnson has said.

A deficit that size would be the fourth highest in history, exceeded only by three years during World War II when the deficit went as high as $57.4 billion. Even a deficit from $14 billion to $18 billion would be the sixth largest on record. Only the five World War II deficits were larger.

One argument used by the President in his tax message of last week, however, is expected to get only passing mention by administration witnesses.

Johnson said if Americans still paid taxes at the rates in effect when he became President they would be paying this year more than $23 billion in additional taxes.

"Now your government is asking for a return of substantially less than half of those tax cuts, that I recommend and the Congress overwhelmingly passed in the last three years," Johnson said.

Administration economists said this $23 billion figure is based on 1964 income tax cuts and the 1965 excise tax cuts adjusted for current income levels. It doesn't include the $5 billion increase in Social Security taxes which went into effect Jan. 1, 1966, and the $1 billion increase of last Jan. 1. Most of this increase, however, had been written into law before Johnson became President.

Hijacked Plane Gets to Airport

HAVANA (AP) — A Colombian airliner hijacked by five armed men and forced to land in Cuba flew Monday to the Colombian island of San Andres, its original destination.

The 68 other passengers, who included four U.S. citizens, and crew left Havana after a farewell party at which the Cubans passed out cigars, books, liquor and phonograph records.

The five hijackers stayed in Havana and asked for political asylum.

Rackets Investigated in Death Of Georgia State Prosecutor

JEFFERSON, Ga. (AP) — Investigators dug into car theft operations and illegal liquor traffic today in a hunt for the assassin whose dynamite bomb snuffed out the rackets-fighting career of a state prosecutor.

The booby-trap killing of Solicitor General Floyd G. Hoard, who had led a crime clean-up drive, shocked community leaders into marshaling their own citizens war on organized crime in this Northeast George area where car stealing and bootlegging flourish.

Hoard

Hoard, 40, father of four, died Monday morning when he turned the ignition switch of his car and detonated six to 12 sticks of dynamite wired under the hood. He was on his way to present evidence to a grand jury prior to criminal court next week.

"If it was intended as a threat, I'm going to double my efforts," said Judge Mark Donahoo of Superior Court, elected as a reform candidate with Hoard nearly three years ago. "We have got to try to eliminate these brutalities, these hoodlum tactics."

Authorities and townspeople agreed that Hoard's crusading crime fight had left a multitude of enemies. Joe Hoard said he had urged his younger brother to take precautions against a car booby trap last May—after Floyd Hoard brought up the subject.

Northeast Georgia long has been a center of auto theft and bootleg whisky rackets. In 1964, when more than 7,500 cars were stolen in Georgia, three policemen were shot to death near Lawrenceville, about 20 miles from Jefferson, and the slayings were linked to car theft operations. Two men were convicted of the killings.

Speculation about motives for the murder was limited to two probabilities: racketeers at work in auto theft operations or bootleggers fearful of their operations being curtailed or ended.

Riot Victim Buried

Mayor Maier Considers Further Curfew

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee's Negro community buried its young victim of violence Monday, as National Guardsmen moved out of the city and officials worked toward the conference table.

Clifford McKissick, 18, the only Negro among the four victims of disturbances that broke out July 30, was buried after a funeral attended by some 500 persons.

McKissick was shot Wednesday night during what police termed a firebomb incident. A local civil rights figure, speaking at the funeral, called the death the work of "trigger-happy police" and reiterated his demands for a federal investigation.

Mayor Henry Maier said today the last of National Guard troops, who had been alerted July 31, were withdrawn during the night. His office said he was studying whether further curfew was needed.

The state of emergency, which includes the curfew, ban on sale of firearms and prohibition of sale of gasoline in containers, would continue pending developments in the riot-torn Negro area of the city.

The situation has been quiet for several days and the ban on liquor sales was lifted last Friday.

Besides the four deaths, including that of a policeman, there were more than 100 injuries and 1,500 arrests in the eight of the disturbances.

Maier repeated his plea Monday for a special session of the state legislature to consider Milwaukee's problems. But the governor's office said it still had not made a decision.

The city council scheduled an emergency session to consider applying for a model cities grant. The council had rejected the mayor's model cities recommendations several times in the past.

Maier also asked the council to appoint a Negro member to his office staff, and two new members for a community relations committee.

In addition, the mayor said he was ready to meet "at almost any time" with a civil rights group working for formation of a biracial committee to study problems that led to the tense and violent Milwaukee situation.

Monday. One crashed and burned, but the other four were able to limp away from the ambush and were reported repairable.

Ordered Rescue

Brig. Gen. John F. Freund was wounded in the lower right leg when he ordered his own chopper down to rescue troops from one of the downed copters. The 49-year-old commander of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade was directing an assault by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops seven miles north of the capital.

Freund, a native of New York City whose family now lives in Vienna, Va., was taken to the Army's 3rd Field Hospital in Saigon and was expected to be laid up two or three weeks.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in South Vietnam, presented Freund with his first Purple Heart in 27 years of Army service. Freund and his aide, a lieutenant, were the only ones wounded as their helicopter tried to pick up two U.S. soldiers. Ground troops later made the rescue.

Pennsylvania City Puts Bounty on Rats

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — City officials announced Monday a bounty of 10 cents per rat tail.

"We can eliminate 10,000 rats for only $1,000," said Mayor James H. Gorbey.

He said the campaign starting Aug. 15 would help the city curb its growing rat population.

Blue Coats to Pay Debts of Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The widow of police patrolman Bryan Moschea will be given a $1,000 check from the Blue Coats Foundation, Inc., the group said Monday.

The organization of about 90 businessmen said it will also determine Mrs. Moschea's contractual obligations and pay them off, too. The group contributes to widows of Milwaukee area law officers and firemen.

Moschea, 24, was shot and wounded fatally by a sniper when he went into a burning building to evacuate residents during Milwaukee's outburst of violence last week.

After 25 Years Bowers Family To be at Home

For the first time in 25 years, Mrs. Esther Bowers and her seven sons will get together Sunday. The family has not all been home at once since just after the start of World War II.

Six of the Bowers sons have a total of 77 years of active military service. Warrant Officer John Bowers, still in the Army, has 21 years of service. Robert, who lives in Madison, is retired with 21 years of service. Earl, now living in Arizona, was twice wounded and totaled 17 years of military duty. Dean Bowers had 12 years of military service and Donald, three years. Another son, Russell, served 13 years as a patrolman and investigator for the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department.

Four of the Bowers sons served in the Pacific and Europe during World War II. Four were also in service during the Korean war, with one seeing military action there.

The bride chose a friend, Miss Kathy Haselton, Rockford, Ill., as maid of honor. Mrs. Bruce Giebel, Miss Joanne Leidholdt and Miss Judy Hryniewicki were bridesmaids.

Performing duties of best man was David Tietz, Dallas, Texas. Eugene Anderson, Louis Neff and David Wing were groomsmen. Guests were seated by Robert Leidholdt and Jerome Wing. Heide Marie Hemm and Jeffrey Cross were junior attendants.

The new Mrs. Wing was graduated from Eau Claire Vocational and Technical Institute and is employed by the Wisconsin Telephone Co. Her husband attended Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh and is an assistant to the city engineer of Appleton.

Bar Discusses Problem

Abortion Laws Contrast With Attitude, Practice

By WILLIAM H. DONHAM

HONOLULU (AP) — Dr Jerome M. Jummer, a UCLA associate professor of psychiatry, chfaracterizes the nation's attitude on abortion as "societal schizophrenia."

Speaking at a panel discussion on abortion and the law Monday at the American Bar Association convention, Kummer said strong laws prohibiting abortion "contrast most vividly with our actual attitudes and practices."

He said most laws provide for abortion only to save the mother's life, while in reality physicians will perform an abortion if a mother's physical or mental health is threatened, if the child may be born with serious mental or physical defects, or if the pregnancy is caused by rape or incest.

Estimates range from 100,000 to one million on the number of abortions a year performed in the United States, he said.

Other panelists agreed there is a conflict between the law and medical practice and public actions. They were the Rev. Robert F. Drinan, dean of the Boston College Law School at Brighton, Mass., and moderator; Zad Leavy, a Los Angeles attorney, and Robert Byrn, law professor at Fordham University in New York.

Father Drinan, a Roman Catholic, argued that if abortion laws are liberalized, they should be changed to allow "abortion on request."

He agreed that there is a great difference between the law and what actually occurs, but he said if the laws were changed to the more liberal guidelines given by Kummer, the American Law Institute and the American Medical Association, there still would be a great number of illegal abortions.

Main Concern

"I am not opposed to abortion on request," said Father Drinan, but he emphasized his main concern is to reduce deaths from abortions. He said he doubts if therapeutic abortion for medical reasons will accomplish this.

He said those who argue for the law institute's proposals which have been adopted for the most part by three states, are actually pressing for abortion on request.

"So why don't we simplify everything and legalize abortion on request?" he asked.

Leavy said only the wealthy can afford to circumvent the law by going to reputable physicians who will perform an abortion for a large fee. He said the poor are driven into the hands of unskilled, illegal abortionists.

50 a Day

The result, he said, is 50 "botched" abortion cases a day in Los Angeles hospitals. He said strict antiabortion laws, rather than protecting women as they are supposed to do, actually result in illegal abortions which he said are the biggest cause of deaths in maternity cases.

Father Drinan and Byrn argued that more liberal abortion laws will not necessarily reduce illegal abortions or maternity deaths.

Actress Sets Out to Prove British Spunk

LONDON (AP) — Actress Diana Bradbury got so riled when three American tourists claimed that Britain had lost its spirit that she leapt fully clothed into the River Thames and swam to the other side.

She won her point, a $56 bet, and a lecture from police.

Diana, 25, met two men and a girl when she left a party in Chelsea Monday.

"They started running down the country and said the nation had lost its backbone," she said.

She hotly defended her country, and $56 was laid that she could not swim the river.

Then she jumped—miniskirt and all—into the Thames and splashed to the far bank.

"However, one of the tourists must have become panicky and phoned the police," she said. A launch, patrol cars and ambulance converged.

One officer said, "We gave her a bit of a ticking off."

Diana didn't tell the tourists she is a former Gloucestershire County swimming champion.

Beatle Says Hippieville 'Too Much'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Harrison, one of the Beatles, quietly explored San Francisco's hippieville Monday until fans discovered him and his wife wandering around Golden Gate Park.

Harrison and his wife Patty then were showered with flowers, posters, buttons and a peace pipe by a quickly gathering crowd.

Harrison responded by taking up an offered guitar and playing a short concert beside a small pond in the park.

George then headed down Haight Street with the guitar and like a pied piper was followed by more than a hundred hippie admirers. Then the Harrisons headed back to Los Angeles.

What did he think of San Francisco?

"Wow! If it's all like this, it's too much," George replied.

Harrison and his wife flew up from Los Angeles with the specific purpose of exploring the Haight-Ashbury hippie area for an hour.

Princess Grace Visits Friends In Hollywood

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the first time since their storybook wedding in 1956, Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco came back to Los Angeles Monday.

Their visit—announced as private—promised a brief reunion for the princess with the Hollywood film colony where she once reigned as Academy Award-winning actress Grace Kelly.

The royal couple is scheduled to attend a party in Hollywood for actress Carol Burnett hosted by actor Rock Hudson.

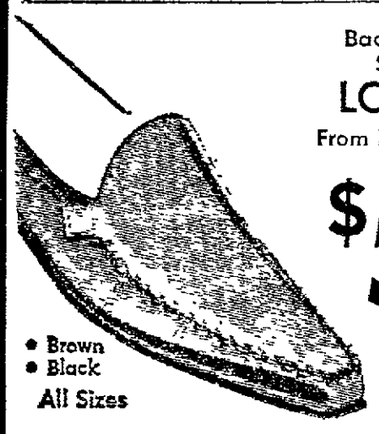

And they plan to see the preview of a film documentary on Monaco.

There will also be tours of several film studios to show the couple's three children how movies are made.

West opened the queen of diamonds, and declarer wasted no time in thought. He took the ace of diamonds, led a heart to the ace, returned to dummy with a club and tried a heart finesse.

West won with the queen of hearts and returned a trump, thus taking the last trump out of the dummy. South eventually lost three spade tricks, and there went his contract.

It never occurred to South that it was a mistake to take a trump finesse; and if South encountered this type of hand a thousand times more in the next 10 years (not at all unlikely) he would take the finesse every single time. The best thing you can say for this line of play is that it isn't worse. The finesse is an even chance.

It's a mistake to be satisfied with an even chance when you can get something much better. South should ruff a diamond at the second trick and lead out the ace and king of hearts. The odds are better than 2 to 1 that the trumps will break 3-2, and then South is home.

South leads a club to dummy to ruff another diamond and then gets to dummy again with a club to ruff dummy's last diamond. As the cards lie, West can overruff, but then dummy's eight of trumps becomes a winner. Declarer loses only one trump and two spades.

South will make the contract in many cases even if the five missing trumps break 4-1, so that his full chance to make four hearts by the correct line of play is about 80 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Miller

Couple Marks 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Miller, 1822 S. Oneida St., observed their 50th wedding anniversary Monday. The Rev. Isadore M. Gosz, O. Praem, of St. Norbert Abbey, Mrs. Miller's nephew, officiated at the mass of thanksgiving at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. The Millers were honored at a dinner Sunday at Reetz's Supper Club. A reception and buffet supper were held Monday at the couple's home. Mrs. Allen Balliet, Milwaukee, and Lyman Miller, attendants at the couple's wedding, were at the celebration.

Mr. Miller was employed by Schlafer's Inc. for 39 years. Since his retirement, he has served on the Outagamie County Board, representing the eleventh district as supervisor for four terms and is presently the vice chairman of the Agricultural and Conservation Committee. He has been a member of the Johnson-Blessman American Legion Post for 47 years.

Mrs. Miller has been an auxiliary member the same length of time.

The Miller's children, are Gerald, Oak Forest, Ill.; Clarence, and Mrs. James Dodson, Mansfield, Ohio. They also have two grandchildren.

British Courts Appoint First Women Ushers

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Courts of Justice announced Monday the appointment of the first women ushers, whose duties will include calling out the centuries-old court cry, "Oyez, oyez, silence in court, be upstanding for the honorable justices."

An official notice said, Sheila Conway, 41; Eva Street, 42, and Olive Moore, 41, have been promoted from attendant to usher with the October sessions at the start of the new legal year. All three are mothers with families.

Locate Books

In their new jobs, they will have to see that the necessary legal books are available to the judges. But they will not be required to help judges put on their court robes, as male ushers do.

Mrs. Conway, who started her career as a waitress in the law courts' restaurant, expressed concern about learning to have the proper legal books at the read.

"I'm a reader but it's of detective books, not law books, I'm afraid," she said.

Your Problems

Most Mutts Just Don't Talk, Ann Tells Hopeful Husband

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Since you caused my problem, perhaps you can tell me what to do about it. You have wrecked my home life with those ridiculous letters about "talking" dogs.

First let me make it clear that my husband is a solid citizen. I have never known him to go off the deep end about anything — until he read in your column about the poodle who said "I want to go outside," and the spaniel who spoke Italian.

Now my husband is firmly convinced that if other people's dogs can talk, ours should be able to say something, too. For a week now he has been trying to get our boxer to say, "The rain in Spain falls mainly on the plain." The poor dog doesn't know what to make of it.

My husband has faith in you, Ann, so please tell him in your column that not all dogs can be made to talk and to stop making our hound miserable. — Can't Get Through To Him

Dear Can't Get Through's Husband: Look, fella — leave the poor mutt alone. If he hasn't said anything up to now, he's not likely to — ever. So give up already.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last night we went to a party at the home of relatives. An 11-year-old girl was being honored at a birthday party given by her parents.

The child ripped open one beautifully wrapped gift after another, glanced at the contents, tossed the gift aside, then reached for the next gift without uttering one word of thanks or even looking at the person who gave it to her.

After she had opened about a dozen boxes, she became bored, stepped over the gifts as if they were garbage and trotted into the bedroom to try on her new clothes. Her parents didn't say one word to her about her rudeness.

Please tell us if we should say something to the child, or to the parents. The girl is becoming more obnoxious by the day. — Concerned Relative

Dear Relative: It is clear from the tone of your letter that you dislike the child. The sad truth is that she is the victim of poor upbriniging. It is tragic when children are reared to be selfish and ungracious. Think of what that girl will have to overcome later in life!

Say nothing. Your remarks

would not be well received. Do try to understand, however, that the child is not at fault.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 15 who is torn between my mother and my father. They were divorced last month and I am a nervous wreck. I have the choice of going with my mother who has decided to stay in this house or I can move to an apartment with my father whom I love dearly.

If I go with my father I will have to change schools. This means leaving my friends which would kill me. I also feel I should stay with my little sister (who has no choice, she must remain with Mom), but this would mean Dad would have no one while Mom had two.

Please help me decide. — One Who Hates Divorce

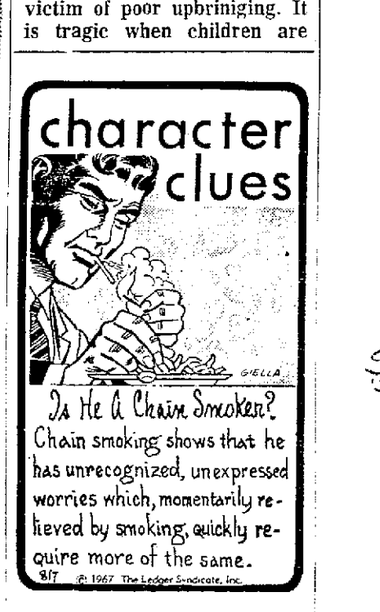

Dear One: A 15-year-old girl is usually better off with her mother. A new school plus the emotional problems of a freshly split home is too much of a load. So, stay with your Mom and spend your summers and holidays with your Dad and good luck, honey.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Lovelier You

Fall Fabrics

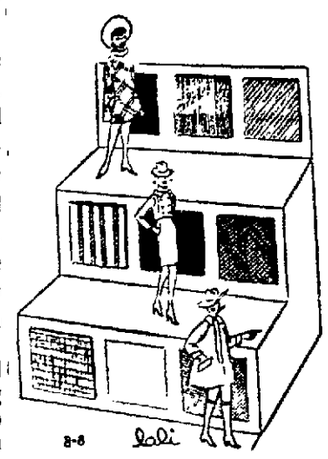

Fabric is the largest single influence in fall fashion. It makes a stronger impact than any one silhouette. It is even more diversified than the hemlines. Most important, there are types and colors to suit every taste.

For the classicist there are soft meltons, fleeces, jerseys, knits, tweeds, gabardines and men's wear patterns. The romanticist can please her fancy with chinchilla, double-faced crepe, velvet and mosaic prints. Created for the Pop fans are the Op-printed coatings, art Nouveau-printed satins and an explosion of non-wovens.

Colors are singularly beautiful and blend to make exciting combinations. Shades fall into three general groups: The neon brights, such as pink fuchsia and bristol blue; the vibrant deeps — royal blue, bottle green, purple; the warm earth tones — dark brown, autumn rust and gold, grainy beige.

Plainly whatever fabric or color you elect to wear, it will not lack distinction. It may well be the most distinctive aspect of a costume —a small tent of a dress, for instance.

So think fabric and color when you think about a fall wardrobe. And take your thinking a step beyond fashion to personal flattery. From so wide a range of materials and shades, flattery is implicit if only you adopt your complements. Forsaking all else!

Brings Beauty Queens Together

TULSA, Okla. (AP)— A University of Wisconsin beauty queen who lost her left leg in an accident last March, was visiting this week with another former beauty queen with the same problem, after they got acquainted by mail.

Donna Schueler, 20, of Madison, Wis., a campus queen at the UW, lost her leg after she was struck by a bus while crossing a campus street.

In the depths of despair after her accident, she wrote to Roberta Scott, 21, a junior at Oklahoma State University and Miss Tulsa of 1961. Miss Scott lost her left leg in a cancer operation three years ago.

Roberta said she burst into tears when she read the Wisconsin girl's letter. She telephoned Donna and invited her to Tulsa.

Settlements Made in Deaths Of 6 Juda Girls

Delta Airlines Pays Families $190,000 Total

MONROE (AP) — Delta Airlines made a $190,000 settlement Monday with the families of six Juda High School seniors killed when a jet airliner crashed into the suburban New Orleans motel where they were staying on their class trip

The airlines gave the parents of each girl $31 000 plus funeral costs and other expenses No agreement has been reached in the deaths of three other Juda victims

The nine girls were among 19 persons killed as the DC-8 jet crashed and exploded behind a fashionable motel in the New Orleans suburb of Kenner La. March 30 as it approached the nearby airport for a night training landing

Trying to Land

Tapes of the final conversation among crew members indicated the huge jet was trying to land with power cut back on two of its four engines as part of the training routine The tape recording was made public at a federal hearing in New Orleans last month

The settlement with parents of five of the girls was made Monday before Green County Judge Roger L Elmer Attorneys reached agreement on the sixth after the court session

The settlements ranged from $31,441 to $31 845

The total involved was $190,120

The fathers of the five girls testified briefly in the hushed and strained court proceedings One farmer left the stand sobbing

The court settlements were reached with the parents of Sandra Goecks, Linda Kay Moe Janice Siedschlag, Nancy Siegenthaler and Nelva Jean Smith

Attorneys reached agreement afterwards with the parents of Doreen Williams and scheduled another court appearance for next Monday

Moved to Motel

The nine girls were among 32 members of the senior class at Juda staying at the motel on their last night in New Orleans The class had moved to the motel because the swimming pool at the downtown motel where they originally registered was closed for repairs

Delta settled on behalf of the airlines and its five crew members aboard the plane Also killed were a federal inspector on the jet airliner and four other persons on the ground

The other victims from Juda were Sheila Babler, Linda Hartwig and Joyce Kaderly.

Buckley to Appoint Housing Authority

Aldermen Ask Mayor to End Delay in Making Announcement

Mayor George Buckley will appoint Appleton's first housing authority Aug. 16.

The Appleton Council, acting on the strong recommendation of its welfare-ordinance committee, recently approved creation of the five-member body.

A group of aldermen, with Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) taking the lead, as been prodding the mayor to make appointments.

At the last council meeting Thompson asked Buckley what was holding up the appointments.

Buckley replied that he had contacted four persons who would serve and a fifth being considered was out of the city. He promised to make the authority appointments at the next council meeting.

Subject to Confirmation

All appointees are subject to confirmation of the council, along with all actions taken by a housing authority.

Buckley did disclose that City Atty. David Geenen would be asked to serve on the authority, along with a representative of the Appleton Board of Realtors.

The purpose of the housing authority is to provide low rental housing for the elderly, with the federal government underwriting the bond issue for construction purposes.

Several state cities with housing authorities — larger and smaller than Appleton — have already constructed modern high-rise and ranch-style apartment complexes for the elderly on low, fixed incomes.

City officials say the housing authority operation has nothing to do with operating a nursing home or home fogr the aged. Its sole purpose is to provide adequate, modern living facilities for the elderly at a low rental rate, they emphasize.

Area Communities Received plaques for safety records from the Wisconsin American Automobile Association Monday with Kimberly's 10-year record taking top honors. Above Francis J. Eckerman, director of safety for the Wisconsin AAA, presents the plaque to Alvin Fulcer, Kimberly village president, as Police Chief Q. A. Williams watches the ceremony. (Post-Crescent Photos)

At Little Chute the Award was for two years without a pedestrian fatality. Eckerman presented the award to Police Chief Robert Nechodom and Edward Spierings, president of the Little Chute village board.

The Kaukauna Award for three years was accepted by Sgt. Gerald Lopas of the Kaukauna police department from Eckerman.

School Board Hires Narovec As Architect

Approval Comes After Lengthy Discussion

The architectural firm of George Narovec of Appleton, which has designed three schools for the Appleton system, was selected Monday to plan the 12-room addition to Madison Junior High School by the board of education.

The 4-2 vote favoring Narovec came after a lengthy discussion on whether or not to hire the original architect, Raymond LeVee, and in spite of LeVee's letter listing some reasons why he should be retained.

A motion to hire the new firm of Zwack and Peeples had been tabled at the last meeting, pending an interview with the architects. After Monday's interview, the motion received a split vote and was dropped.

In the letter to the board, LeVee stated that since all the plans were at his disposal, he could do the job more quickly and at less cost. He had said that he felt the accepted 6 per cent could be lowered to 5 per cent with anticipated savings.

'Could Mean Savings'

"This could mean a savings of $4,000," Charles Buchanan, president, said. But members of the board protested that the letter could mean that the fee would be lowered only "if the anticipated savings were realized."

Vice President Kenneth Sager added, "LeVee has received about $10 million worth of projects from us and we are, after all, in the public business and I feel it is time to turn over this straightforward structure to someone else.

John Schneider, who backed hiring LeVee for the job, remarked that "we aren't here to teach new architects but children, and I feel the man who designed the school could save us a great deal of time."

Mrs. Helen Heil, secretary, however, added that "the board has a responsibility to use more available talent in the community," to which Schneider remarked, "Our responsibility is to get the job done as quickly as possible."

Of the 12 new schools built since 1951, LeVee has designed five—Lincoln, Madison, Edison, Johnston and AHS-East. Narovec has been the designer of Richmond, Foster and Huntley.

The projected cost of the addtion is $500,000.

Penalties Given Young Cyclists

Race With Police Ends in Fines, Revoked License

LITTLE CHUTE — Two youthful motorcyclists who tried to out-run village police in separate incidents over the weekend were given stiff penalties in the village Municipal Court Monday.

Kenneth Williamson, 18, 1801 S. Jefferson St., Appleton, was fined $305 on separate counts of eluding an officer, violating a license restricted to a car, reckless driving and speeding. The violations occurred in a chase early Sunday morning on State 96.

Gerold J. VanHandel, 17, route 1, Kaukauna, had his license revoked for nine months and was fined $5 and costs after pleading guilty of attempting to elude an officer, driving without lights, and imprudent speed.

Other Violators

Fines totalling $130 were assessed to Robert VanNuland, 26, 101 Canal St., for driving without a valid license and reckless driving.

Donald F. Castellion, 17, 3000 W. Wisconsin Ave., Appleton, had his driver's license revoked for 60 days and was fined $5 and costs after he pleaded guilty of operating at imprudent speed.

All appeared before Justice Raymond Sanders.

Appleton Postal Clerk Collapses, Dies in Downtown Book Store

Philmore Lokken, about 48 1500 W. Washington St., collapsed and died shortly after noon today at the Book Nook on S. Appleton Street.

According to authorities, Lokken had been in the store about 15 minutes when he collapsed. The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad was called to administer oxygen, but Lokken was pronounced dead by Outagamie County Coroner Bernard Kemps.

Lokken was a clerk at the Appleton Post Office. His death was listed as due to natural causes.

Outagamie Okays County Sanitarian

Month Delay Sought by Rural Vote

Overcoming the objections of rural supervisors, the Outagamie County Board voted this morning to establish the position of county sanitarian.

A resolution recommended by the board's health, education passed on a 36 to 10 vote shortly after Supv. Ervin Conradt's attempt to delay consideration for one month had been defeated, 28 to 18.

Several rural supervisors objected to the creation of the position because it "takes away home rule."

Takes Issue

"Once we get one man," Supv. Bernard Tillman (Grand Chute) said, "we'll get two or three more. The cities keep wanting more and more . . . they're trying to spend us into prosperity.

"The town health inspector can do the job," he said, "and, if he doesn't, get rid of him and get somebody who will."

Kaukauna Supv. Russell DeLaHunt, chairman of the health, education and institutions committee, answered Tillman by saying that "Problems of health and sanitation cross municipal boundaries. We need to coordinate the people we have available now and we need someone to enforce the ordinances we have on the books today."

DeLaHunt also explained that the new sanitarian would help set up proposed county zoning and health ordinances.

Proposed Specifications

The resolution specified that the man would be a sanitarian, hydrologist "or comparable professional person" and explained that he would "coordinate a program and establish a county office for the purpose of remedying, where practicable, unhealthful and unsanitary conditions that do exist."

An amendment offered by Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, further outlined criteria for the new position.

The amendment, which unanimously passed the board, specified the man would:

—Assist the health, sanitation, institutions and zoning committees of the county board in the preparation of sanitary and zoning ordinances;

—Conduct inspections of lowland, shoreland and floodplain areas to check on development in compliance with ordinances;

—Inspect sanitary and septic systems for compliance with county ordinances;

—Insure the public that organizations and-or agencies are adhering to the health standards

Operation Costs Increase

Estimated School Budget Continues On Upward Swing

Increases in the teaching staff and the salary schedule plus the reinstatement of the deferred items from last year's budget have raised the 1968 $5.4 school budget by $706,443, so far.

This figure, however, includes only general accounts and Appleton High School-East and West figures, as outlined in the first rough draft form Monday by William Knuth, director of business affairs, to the board of education.

It was stressed that due to the request of the Appleton Council to make some estimates and work on the budget earlier, the budget for the coming year is based on six months actual expenses and six months anticipated expenses. In the past, the budget was set up on an 8-4 month basis.

Knuth also explained that the statistics may still vary since transportation for the parochial children could not be estimated until a figure is submitted by the Catholic and Lutheran schools.

Salary Increases

The operation of the two high schools will increase by $508,636, with the biggest increase shown in the salary department.

Two additional administrators — the principal and vice principal for AHS-E — plus 34 new teachers and guidance people on the high school levels and the increase in salary schedule will escalate the budget by $295,821.

Other major increases for the two high schools include the reinstatement of a summer school program ($15,000); additional clerks and office help ($9,834 more); teaching supplies ($11,487 more); salaries of custodial staff ($43,098 more); power and light ($13,675 more); reinstatement of a request for a public address system at AHS-West ($8,600).

Instructional equipment, mostly for the industrial arts department, will increase by $50,703. However, much of this will be reimbursed by the state and federal governments.

Decreases Projected

A number of decreases for the two schools are also projected: salary of a clerk in the guidance office ($1,294 less); supplemental textbooks ($2,500 less); repairs and replacements of the service systems — supplies and maintenance ($479 less) and repair and maintenance of sites ($2,217 less).

A total increasd of $197,808 is projected for the general accounts for an estimated total of $836,327.

In a breakdown of categories, administration costs will increase by $14,239. Biggest increases in this area include the salary of the superintendent ($8,791 more); director of business ($1,018 more); salaries of clerks for superintendent and director of business ($1,789 more);

Attendance service costs will increase by $5,330 to $20,197. The major increase, combined with decreases in other fields, is the salaries of the attendance director and assistant of $5,739

Health Services

Health services will increase by $17,972. An additional nurse plus a dental hygienist combined with salary increases will account for $17,353 of the increase.

Transportation costs, still uncertain, have been figured at $152,615, an increase of $59,125.

Three new trucks to replace old ones, plus equipment and a snow plow on each truck, comes to $9,739, an increase of $8,439.

Fixed charges, including insurances, retirement benefits, medical examinations and rents, will increase by $31,057 to a total cost of $193,144. Major increase is $22,868 for municipal retirement.

Capital outlay will increase by $1,294 for a total of $5,948; community service shows an increase of $4,737 for a total of $19,980;

The general account for all schools totals $93,516, an increase of $24,911. Major increases fall in supplies used in instruction ($3,452 more) and salaries of various resource personnel.

In the coming weeks, rough drafts similar to these will be presented to the board for the junior high and elementary school operations.

Wolf River Included in Federal Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed today a bill to designate a national wild and scenic rivers system.

The bill would ban construction of dams in wild and scenic rivers, and would provide for studies designed to bring other rivers into the preservation system.

The measure will be sent to the House Interior Committee, which probably will not consider it until next year. The Senate vote was 84-0.

The bill would designate a national system of wild and scenic rivers. Certain streams in wilderness areas would be ordered kept in their primitive state, and other rivers would be deevloped for recreation.

All would be kept in free-flowing condition.

Under its terms, portions of some rivers would be designated wild rivers including the St. Croix in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and the Wolf in Wisconsin.

The scenic river system would include portions of the St. Croix, and the Namekagon in Wisconsin.

Warrant Cites Third Suspect

Green Bay Youth Charged With Aiding In Appleton Holdup

A third person alleged to have been involved in a $300 armed robbery at an Appleton service station July 10, has been charged in a warrant issued today through the Outagamie County district attorney's office.

The armed robbery count was brought against Clarence R. Storzer, 17, Green Bay. The warrant was brought after Storzer first was waived from juvenile court jurisdiction following waiver hearing in juvenile court

Charged with Storzer in the armed robbery of the Bulko Station, 1608 E. Wisconsin Ave., were Robert J. Zdiarstek, 18, and Carl F. Benishek, 22, both of Green Bay. Benishek pleaded innocent late last month in Circuit Court and is in jail under $2,500 bond.

Storzer and Zdiarstek are now in the State Reformatory at Green Bay, under parole revocation, and will be arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday afternoon.

Arrested After Ceremony

Patient Wedding Guest Waits to Jail Best Man

An uninvited guest, who waited patiently outside the church, took the best man from a wedding to a jail cell Saturday afternoon.

The best man was Richard Jacoby, 21, who came to Clintonville from Bell Gardens, Calif., to be best man at a buddy's wedding. The uninvited guest was an Outagamie County sheriff's investigator who had been holding a warrant for Jacoby's arrest since late last fall.

Waiting at the Church

The investigator said he was "tipped off" that Jacoby was going to be at the wedding Saturday. He got there before the ceremony, but did not identify himself until the wedding party and guests came out of the church. The investigator said he waited at the Clintonville Police Department for a while, then outside the church.

As the party came out, the investigator took Jacoby aside and read him the warrant. Not wanting to bring complete ruin to the conclusion of an otherwise happy event, the investigator granted permission for the best man to have his pictures taken with the rest of the wedding party.

He then whisked Jacoby off to jail, but the California man was released later the same day, following a conference between his attorney and County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

$1,000 Bond

Jacoby appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Monday afternoon. Bonds were set at $1,000 for driving after his license was revoked, displaying license plates not issued to his vehicle, failure to comply with a policeman's signal, and illegitimacy, the latter charge contained in the warrant held by the county. No pleas were entered.

The traffic charges were brought by Appleton police who allege the offenses occurred Oct. 13. Jacoby, who is free on bond, was scheduled to appear in court again this afternoon.

Special Council Meeting Called on Water Problem

Appleton Files Protest to HUD Denial

Appleton officials today fired a letter of objection to the regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) questioning the grounds on which a $1.5 million Appleton water grant was denied.

A special meeting of the Appleton Council also has been called for Wednesday night on the problem.

Mayor George Buckley, after conferring with City Atty. David Geenen, Public Works Director Frank Keuler and others, wrote HUD's assistant regional administrator that the facts in the case were ignored.

"In view of the conclusions drawn, it appears there is a regrettable misunderstanding of the technical data which the City of Appleton has submitted," Buckley wrote Edward Bruder, the federal official who handled the Appleton application.

Taking exception to reasons set forth by HUD for denying the grant, which would have been applied to the cost of the $4.5 million plant addition and Lake Winnebago pipeline projects, Buckley declared that:

—"The expansion of the water filtration plant is in accordance with the areawide plans for a unified or coordinated water source in that the city will need the water filtration plant expansion regardless of the raw water source (Fox River, Lake Winnebago, or Lake Michigan), and further that on a cost basis approximately 90 per cent of the entire project will be used in an areawide system when other communities in the Fox Valley should form a water utilities district to obtain water from Lake Michigan.

—"Special Report No. 2 of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission stating that 'the Appleton water treatment plant appears to be adequate for the next several years with an additional reserve supply of 4 million gallons' was valid in August of 1960 when it was submitted. However, the 'several years' referred to have already lapsed, so that at this time quanitity is an extremely pressing problem."

Later Reports

Buckley told Bruder several later reports submitted by the city show Report No. 2 has been updated and refined and on the basis of all the current reports, expansion of the treatment plant "is not only justified but extremely urgent."

He advised the city intends to prepare a short brief indicating the importance of the Appleton water project with reference to appropriate reports which had already been furnished in support of the project.

The mayor informed Bruder all facts would again be called to his attention "in the hope that any misunderstanding can be resolved which might result in a different valuation of our project."

Copies of Buckley's letter were sent to U S Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) and Rep. John W. Byrnes (R-Green Bay).

Consider Appeal

At the same time Buckley called for a special meeting of the city council for this Wednesday night, after the meeting of the schools' fiscal control board, to consider taking Appleton's appeal for reconsideration directly to Washington.

Buckley said he would ask the council for authorization to send city officials to Washington to appeal the ruling of the regional HUD office to the top men in the department

A spokesman for Sen Nelson had suggested the Washington meeting and said arrangements would be made to have the Appleton delegation confer with the top man in the HUD water and sewer grant division

$1 Billion in Antiriot Funds Asked by Ribicoff, Percy

Local Efforts Would Get Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens Abraham A. Ribicoff and Charles H. Percy proposed today a $1 billion riot-prevention fund and wide flexibility for the President in spending it

The Senators said the bill would require no new appropriations or additional spending. It would authorize the President to transfer up to 2 per cent of budgeted, nondefense spending into a neighborhood emergency fund

Percy, R-Ill., and Ribicoff, D-Conn., said the President then could make grants to states, communities and nonprofit organizations for local efforts aimed at easing urban tensions and promoting orderly community growth.

Quick Action

The fund would differ from existing urban-aid programs, the senators said, in giving the President the ability to act quickly and with flexibility in response to local initiatives.

Emphasis would be put, said Ribicoff and Percy, on the concerted use of private industry and capital, civic groups and existing federal, state and local government programs.

The senators said top priority should be given to the creation of jobs, better housing and improved law enforcement.

Meanwhile Senate riot investigators appeared divided over the course of their probe, which has centered thus far on policemen, racial agitation and the federal antipoverty program.

Use of Funds

Sen John L. McClellan, D-Ark., says testimony developed to date by the Senate Judiciary Committee's hearings convinces him there's a need to see whether government money supports "organizations that are responsible, directly or indirectly, for these riots."

But Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., are pressing for a broadened investigation to cover social and economic factors they contend lie behind urban rioting

"We're not solving the problem just by getting bigger night sticks and faster shooting riot guns," Hart told a Newark, N.J., turnkey Monday. "You appear to be preoccupied with repressive measures."

The policeman was Leonard F. Kowalewski, president of New Jersey's Fraternal Order of Police, which he said has 2,000 members.

Newark's Workers

Kowalewski insisted that people connected with the antipoverty program in Newark were involved in racial demonstrations which created the climate for five days of deadly rioting.

He spent well over three hours on the witness stand, repeatedly naming the United Community Corp., Newark's anti-poverty agency, as a source of racial unrest.

When Kennedy demanded documentation for the charges, Kowaleski replied: "My knowledge of the UCC has been limited to seeing these people picket and demonstrate."

Under further questioning, Kowalewski said he rarely left the jail during working hours.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., the man in charge of guiding antipoverty legislation through the Senate, demanded after Monday's hearing that Director Sargeant Shriver of the Office of Economic Opportunity be given a chance to rebut the charges.

Clark called accusations of racial agitation by antipoverty program personnel unsubstantiated and utterly false.

But a new round of testimony critical of the antipoverty program is likely Thursday when Nashville, Tenn., Police Capt John A. Sorace returns to the witness stand.

Sorace, scheduled to testify next, said in a previous appearance that the Office of Economic Opportunity is subsidizing a school where Negro children are taught to hate white people. The chairman of Nashville's local antipoverty agency denied any funds have been given the school.

Four days of police testimony on the riots also have produced repeated assertions that city riots are linked by a conspiracy.

1934 Limousine Account Settled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A San Francisco limousine service has received $1250 from the estate of a German countess to settle a 33-year-old account.

Jack Cohen, president of the Gray Line, said Kelly's Stables provided limousine service for Countess Natalie Herzogen of Mecklenberg when she visited San Francisco in 1934.

The countess died soon after returning to Germany. The Gray Line purchased Kelly's Stables.

Economy Overburdened

Jordan Urges Refugees From Israel to Go Back to Homes

The Jordanian government is putting pressure on Arab refugees to return to their homes in Israeli-occupied territory so Jordan's shaky economy won't be burdened with them.

King Hussein's government declared it was the "national and sacred duty" of refugees from the June war to return "to prevent the enemy from settling on our land and bringing in immigrants."

The Jordanian refugee committee warned that it would cut off aid to any refugee who was given permission by Israel to return home but refused.

Extend Deadline

The announcement followed agreement between Jordanian and Israeli authorities on repatriation application forms for Arabs who fled from western Jordan after the Israeli army occupied it. All refugees wishing to return must cross the Jordan River by the end of August, but officials said the deadline might be extended.

An estimated 260,000 Arabs fled to eastern Jordan, posing a serious threat to the Jordanian economy. Many have been reported unwilling to return while their homeland is occupied by the Israelis.

To induce them, the Amman government announced it would give each returning refugee a three-month supply of food, and about $4.20 in cash when they cross the river which serves as the cease-fire line between Jordan and Israel.

Home Rebuilding

Finance Minister Abdel Wahab Majali said the government also plans to contribute to the rebuilding of homes in the occupied area damaged by the war.

Life meanwhile returned to normal in the Arab sector of Jerusalem after a one-day business and transportation strike protesting Israel's unification of the Arab and Israeli sectors of Jerusalem. The strike was completely effective, but shops and stores reopened today and buses and taxis began running again

The strike was called by a clandestine group known as the Defense Committee of Arab Jerusalem. Israeli police said they knew the identity of those instrumental in calling the strike, but no new arrests were announced.

Three Arab youths were arrested Monday on charges of threatening shopkeepers. Israeli authorities also withdrew the license of one Arab bus company which joined the strike.

Jerusalem police also announced a reward of $1,660 for help in recovering the jeweled crown and decorations stolen from a statue of the Virgin Mary in the Church of the Holy Sepulcher Wednesday. Police hoped the reward would persuade the thieves not to break up the decorations for the gold and jewels they contain.

First National Convention

Strong Progovernment Bloc Meets in Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — A new political bloc that has the potential of becoming the most powerful in South Vietnam began its first national convention in Saigon today.

Political analysts say that if the elements in the bloc can be pulled together into some type of political alliance, the group could control up to one million votes among the 5.4 million registered voters.

All indications are that the new political grouping, which calls itself Toan Iet—all Vietnam—tends to be progovernment. However, it cannot be called a government party.

Three Tickets

The convention reportedly will endorse three tickets of 10 men for the Sept. 3 Senate elections. The three tickets are considered heavily progovernment.

There is an outside chance that the group also will endorse the military presidential ticket of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. But it was thought that certain elements in the bloc would prevent any endorsement in the presidential race.

Among the group are leaders of the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao sects The Cao Dai, a mixture of Eastern and Western religions with nationalistic overtones, and the Hoa Hao, a breakaway Buddhist sect which also has nationalistic facets, both include several factions.

Riot Indictments Heard

Newark Jails Nearly Empty

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) Three weeks of arraignments and indictments by the Essex County grand jury finally have cleared Newark's jails of most of the 1,465 persons arrested during racial violence last month.

Most of those arrested between the evening of July 12, when the riots began, and the morning of July 17, when Gov. Richard J. Hughes declared the emergency over, have been released on bail or in the custody of their lawyers.

But Asst. County Prosecutor William R. Ferlanti said Monday that another 400 to 500 complaints are still to be heard by the grand jury. Ferlanti said 489 indictments involving 700 persons had been returned and 55 complaints involving 70 persons had been dismissed.

Statistics compiled from police records by the U.S. marshal's office here revealed that 90 per cent of those arrested reside in Newark and that nearly 50 per cent were over 25 years of age. The records appeared to discount claims by some city police that the riots were the work of "young outsiders."

Most defendants have asked for a jury trial and five extra courts are scheduled to begin trying cases Sept. 25, with judges available for pretrial motions beginning Sept. 15.

Charges against those indicted range from petty larceny to assault with intent to kill, but about 75 per cent of the indictments were for breaking and entering, larceny, or possession and receipt of stolen goods.

Petty Looting

"There may be some downgrading on petty looting cases," said Ferlanti, "depending mainly upon the value of the item taken and the previous background of the defendants."

But Ferlanti said there would be no "wholesale reduction" of charges involving the use or possession of firearms, assaulting an officer or arson.

Police records showed 91 persons arrested on charges involving weapons or explosives. Two-thirds of these persons were over 25 and 20 per cent came from outside New Jersey, according to the U.S. marshal's office.

Nearly half of those arrested had police records, but only about 20 per cent were known to have been convicted. The results of cases involving the remaining 30 per cent were unknown.

Many defendants have asked the newly created New Jersey public defender's office for counsel. Peter Murray, appointed to head that agency last month, said most of the cases have been turned over to volunteer attorneys since his staff has only six members.

Police records showed that 39 persons arrested were from outside Essex County.

Church Admits Not Reaching Young Adults

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — Differences between generations and classes are sharper than racial barriers, a church researcher said Monday night in trying to explain the defection of many young adults from churches.

Lyle E. Schaller, director of the regional church planning office in Cleveland, told the National Ministers Conference that research indicates "we're just not reaching the group that's having children—the young adults."

He said there has been an average 30 per cent drop in child baptism in most churches while the nation's birth rate has dropped 13 per cent.

Trouble in Hong Kong

Red Chinese Soldiers Guard Briton From Mob

HONG KONG (AP) — Chinese Communist soldiers held back a crowd of Chinese stoning a British soldier today at the border village of Sha Tau Kok.

The soldiers was trying to dismantle what turned out to be a fake bomb that had been placed on the Hong Kong side of the border. It was the fourth time Red Army troops moved to the border to stop Chinese attacks since five Hong Kong police were killed at Sha Tau Kok by a Chinese mob that crossed the border

Britain's charge d'affairs in Peking delivered a note to the Chinese Foreign Ministry Monday protesting attacks across the border, but sources in London said the British government apparently does not regard the incidents as part of a deliberate plan of provocation

In the others, a mob smashed the windows of a streetcar and beat up the driver and conductor, a barricade of burning crates was placed in the path of a streetcar, and two men attacked a driver with broken bottles.

11 County Mutual Aid Pact for Police Sought

OSHKOSH — Joining in a mutual aid compact with 11 other counties was recommended Monday by the Sheriff and Coroner Committee for the furnishing of police assistance in the event of emergencies or civil disorders.

The recommendation will be presented to the county board Aug. 15.

The mutual aid pact would enable member counties to furnish each other assistance without billing the county requesting the help for the costs involved.

The pact was precipated by Sheboygan County's request for help during the June races at Elkart Lake and Winnebago County's request for aid during student disorders at WSU-O in May.

County Corporation Counsel Gerald Engeldinger said the state attorney general has ruled that under present law a sheriff does not have the authority to send county patrolmen or deputy sheriffs outside the county to assist another county.

Legislation permitting this is now awaiting the signature of Gov. Knowles but would still require the requesting county to be billed for the salaries and other expenses involved. A mutual aid pact would enable mutual assistance without the billing.

Winnebago County sent deputies to Sheboygan County in June but denied Sheboygan County's request for aid in July after the attorney general's ruling on the matter.

Counties involved in the mutual aid pact, in addition to Winnebago County, include Ozaukee, Outagamie, Columbia, Dodge, Washington, Manitowoc, Green Lake, Calumet, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac and Marquette.

A mutual aid pact is already in existence among southeastern counties and others are proposed on a regional basis in other parts of the state.

Thickness of Runway Will Be Increased

Board Votes 44-1 To Pay $70,000 For Added Cost

On the strength of a 44 to 1 county board vote this morning, new runway thicknesses at the Outagamie County Airport will be increased by one inch.

The board voted to transfer $70,000 from the reserve contingencies fund to pay for the added cost.

Fox Valley Construction Co., contractors for the new airport runway, has been ready since last Thursday to begin pouring concrete on the new runway, but delayed the work until the county board acted this morning.

The board heard from Glenn Intermill, representing the Ralph H. Burke Co., Park Ridge, Ill., the county's airport consultant, explain the need for the thicker runway.

Criteria Changed

Intermill pointed out that the FAA (Federal Aviation Agency) had changed its criteria for minimum runway thicknesses for various types of aircraft. He pointed out that with the runway scheduled to be lengthened from 5,200 to 7,000 feet within the next few years, larger aircraft will come into the airport which will require stronger concrete.

The critical end of the runway will be increased from 500 to 1,000 feet and the 400 feet at the intersection of the runway will be designated as critical. All critical points on the runway, plus the taxiways, will take 10-inch concrete thickness, instead of the nine inches which previously had been specified.

A lesser thickness is required on other portions of the runway because planes are going at faster speeds and the wings provide some air support.

School Board Procedures Questioned

MENASHA — Operating procedures of the Menasha Board of Education were challenged Monday night by board member John Pawlowski.

Pawlowski termed the entire special session as being "out of order" and said many previous board meetings were out of order.

He told the board to be consistent and either use its committee system or disband the committees.

Pawlowski centered his complaints on four items — leasing of additional buses, hiring of a new maintenance man, improvement of Butte des Morts field, and the lack of formal parliamentary rules for the board.

The first three items were approved over Pawlowski's objections and the board hastily adjourned in the middle of discussion on the fourth.

County Billed For Police Aid With Disorders

$5,306 Charged Against Winnebago In WSU-O Riot

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County has been billed $5,306 by neighboring police departments for assistance given during student disorders at Wisconsin State University - Oshkosh May 26 and 27.

County Corporation Counsel, Gerald Engeldinger said the City of Oshkosh has informally agreed to pay half of the bill.

The Sheriff and Coroner Committee Monday declined to act on the bill and said they wanted to look into it more closely.

The disturbances, apparently over state legislature proposals to raise the minimum beer drinking age, started in the City of Oshkosh but spilled into the county where the students attempted to block traffic from crossing the U.S. 41 bridge over Lake Butte des Morts.

The bills included $1,907 from Neenah, $1,613 from City of Fond du Lac; $849 from Appleton, $457 from City of Manitowoc, $318 from Fond du Lac County, $108 from Waupun and $54 from Ripon.

Supv. E. G. Steinhilber, Oshkosh, chairman of the committee, questioned the bills as being precedent setting but Sheriff Marvin Peppler said Neenah has always billed the county whenever its officers have assisted county police.

Payment of overtime to county patrolmen who worked during the disturbances was approved by the committee.

Cost of $64,430

Ground Is Broken for Greenville Town Hall

GREENVILLE — Ground was broken Monday for a new municipal building to replace the existing town hall which was built in 1887.

The construction bid of $64,430 by A. W. Jeske Construction Co., Oshkosh, and plans to proceed with construction work were approved earlier at a joint meeting of the Board of Supervisors and the Town Planning Committee.

Supervisors are Rudodph Spreeman, James Wunderlich and Clarence Reimer. The planning group includes Cornelius Ebben, John Stolzman and Elmer Schroeder.

The new structure, to be located on State 76 north of the intersection of 76 and State 45, will contain fire equipment storage facilities, fire water supply cistern, a meeting hall, town office and kitchen facilities.

The masonry structure will be complimented with building materials and fixtures that require a minimum of maintenance. Exterior walls will be fully insulated and faced with a decorative masonry stone.

Work on the building will begin immediately with completion scheduled in three months.

Nebraska Pair Injured in Crash

Two persons received minor injuries in a two-car collision about 8:30 a.m. Monday on U.S. 41 at Outagamie County Trunk V, one mile west of Appleton.

Bernard J. Muchinski, state patrolman, reported William E. McChesney, 35, Omaha, Neb., received a swollen ankle and Mrs. McChesney, abrasions on her knees as a result of the accident.

A car driven by Otto J. Selle, 84, Dale, was traveling east on V when it collided with the McChesney automobile, which was headed north on U.S. 41, Muchinski reported.

Damage to the McChesney vehicle was estimated at $1,000 and damage to the Selle car at $400.

Highway Officials Visit Bridge, Interchange Sites

MENASHA — The special bridge committee, an arm of the Winnebago County highway committee, completed the first phase of a renewed effort to push for action on the proposed Tri-County expressway Monday.

Committeemen, together with P. L. Janssen, state highway district engineer, Arno Haering Jr., of the Fox Valley Council of Governments and Leon Morrissey, county highway commissioner, viewed the sites in the Town of Menasha where two bridges and interchanges are planned for the highway network.

The tour was arranged to familiarize Supv. Robert Wertsch, Oshkosh, with the area. Wertsch was named to the bridge unit at the June 27 county board session.

The next step, set for early September, will be to meet with state highway officials in Madison in an attempt to get commitments for the possible relocation of state highways over the proposed bridges.

Supv. Roland Kampo, Town of Menasha chairman, has urged the committee and board to act on reserving the right of ways for the expressway prior to budgeting this fall.

A $1.8 million price tag has been placed on acquiring the rights of way on the town and committeemen want to interest state highway officials in using the proposed bridges, north of Ninth Street and north of Stroebe's Island, as new routes for state highways 114 and 47 and U.S. 10 in order to be eligible for aids.

The entire expressway package will cost an estimated $15.9 million.

Library Funds Promised by Aldermen

MENASHA — The common council carried plans for a new library three more steps forward Monday night as aldermen:

—Formally declared their readiness to raise $550,000 to pay for the new building;

—Told the architect to complete the plans and specifications,

—Approved the location of the new structure on the southeast corner of Racine Street Park, the site chosen by the architect and library planning bodies.

The declaration of readiness to raise the funds was the key action of the special council meeting, which included a lengthy recess while library committee officials and architect Raymond N. LeVee explained the preliminary plans to the council.

Although City Atty. Richard Steffens explained that the action was without legal weight, the financing declaration was requested by state library officials in order that they might earmark federal aid funds for Menasha.

Board of Review at Kaukauna Lowers Assessments for Six

KAUKAUNA — The board of review lowered six assessments during last month's sessions, Karl E. Marzahl, city clerk reported Monday.

A total of 10 property owners requested assessment adjustments.

The assessment roll for 1968 now is being added and the figures will be ready in about a week, Marzahl said.

Car Stolen, Recovered Seven Hours Later

Appleton police are investigating the theft of about $105 worth of trading stamps from Doering's Super Valu Store, 231 Walter Ave.

The loss was reported this morning, but could have occurred between Aug. 2 and Aug. 5, police were told.

Menasha Hit Severely by Dutch Elm

MENASHA — "We've got Dutch Elm Disease, and we've got it bad," Menasha City Forester Harry Kargus told the park board Monday night.

He reported 35 cases of DED, with only one-quarter of the city inspected. Some of the diseased trees have already been removed and Kargus said he is arranging for the removal of the rest as soon as possible.

Notifications will go out to property owners with beatle infested trees in the next few days, Kargus said, giving them ten days to cut them down.

Kargus said the cost for cutting down an average tree runs $100 to $150, with costs running higher for larger trees or trees overhanging wires or houses. He warned against exhorbitant prices by tree firms riding the "gravy train" during the DED epidemic.

Kargus, who lists himself as a qualified tree expert, recently got out of the hospital and that is why the inspection program is just getting fully underway. The board set an Oct. 15 deadline for completing the inspection of the 6,000 to 7,000 elms in the city.

Bid Date Set For OSU Branch In Fond du Lac

MADISON (AP) — Bids will be opened next month for a branch campus of Oshkosh State University at Fond du Lac, Eugene R. McPhee, state university director, said Monday.

The Fond du Lac campus will have six buildings built around a reflecting pool on a 170-acre site northeast of the city. The cost for the 900-student branch is put at $4.4 million. It is scheduled for a September 1968 opening.

The state university system has two other branch campuses and another planned for 1969.

Stout State University operates the Barron County campus at Rice Lake which began instruction for 116 students last fall. Platteville State University will open the Richland Center branch for 350 students this September.

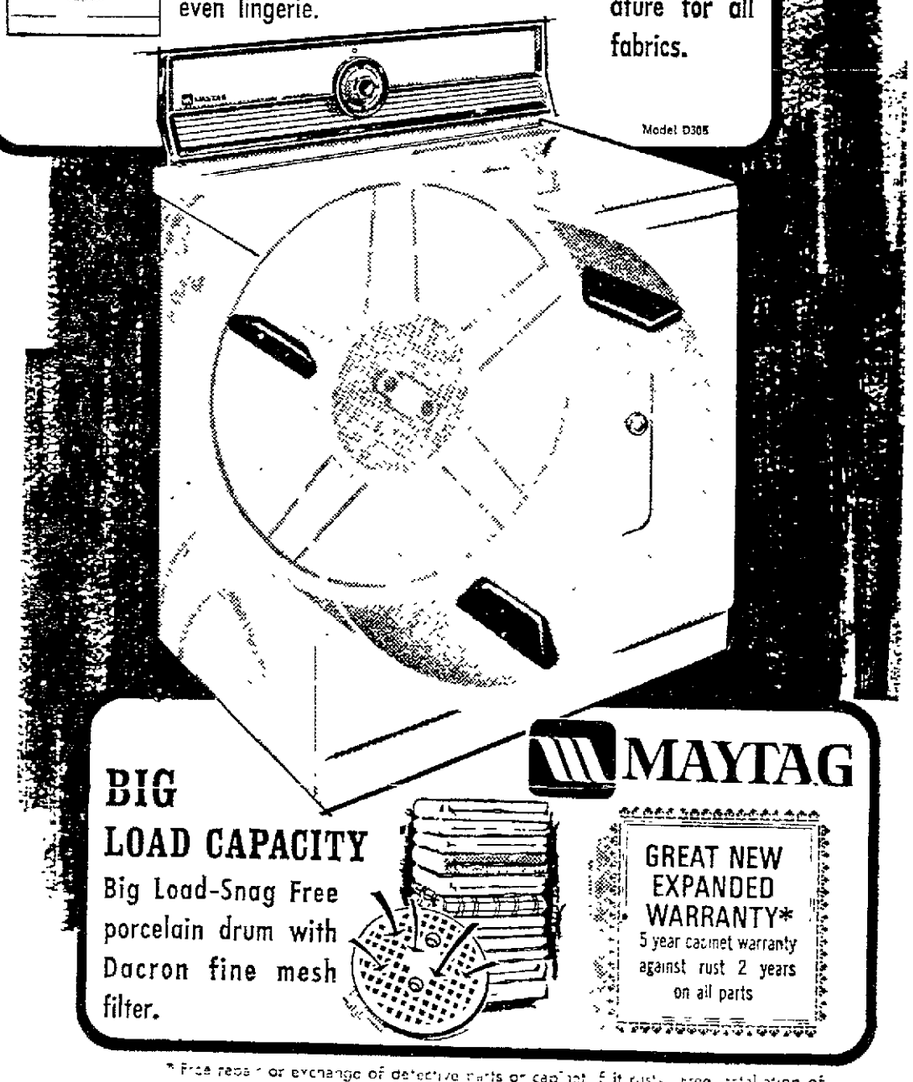

McPhee said Stevens Point State University plans to open a branch at Medford in 1969.

Doing What It Was Sent There to Do

Guardsman-Newsman Reminisces About Riot Duty in Milwaukee

BY MIKE WALTER
Post-Crescent Wire Editor

Milwaukee has had its touch of the "long, hot summer" which was predicted for it throughout the winter and spring months. People who are not going to forget it for some time are National Guardsmen from throughout the state who were called away from their jobs on less than an hour's notice and suddenly found themselves in a situation where they knew they might have to dodge bullets.

Post-Crescent Wire Editor Mike Walter, a private first class in the Wisconsin National Guard, spent about 48 hours with his Appleton company during last week's unrest in Milwaukee. Here are a few of his leftover remembrances.

While each Guardsman kept saying "Why, why, why?" to himself throughout the call-up, it is doubtful that many would want to trade their experiences in Milwaukee.

It's like the man who said "A million dollars couldn't make me fight another World War II, but a billion dollars couldn't make me wish I hadn't fought it." And so it is with the Guard in Milwaukee, only there are quite a few dollar signs missing.

Private Tales

Everyone has his own tales of the Milwaukee riot situation. My favorite was in Columbia Hospital on the city's northeastside near Shorewood. I had just spent a sleepless night patrolling at the Capitol Drive-Green Bay Road intersection and had arrived back at our barracks at State Fair Park. Just as I was hopping into bed, a friend and fellow medic, Pfc. Clarence VanHandel, came in and asked if an ambulance driver were available to take a sick Guardsman to the main armory on the other side of town. The curfew already had been lifted for the day, but I figured I knew the city streets as well as most (there've been many times that I got lost while going to Milwaukee Braves games), so would take the fellow over.

The fellow, a Pfc. Johnson from the west side of Green Bay, had a suspected tooth abscess. As we went to the motor pool to get an M-151, or Jeep ambulance, the man in charge there, a platoon sergeant, asked me if I had ammunition for my weapon. I didn't, so he gave me a full clip for my M-1 rifle. I loaded it and we hopped in the ambulance for a ride across town. I immediately got lost, and ended up going all the way out U. S. 41 to the west end of Capitol. I then turned right and went right down to the armory.

The medical officer in charge there, a Lt. Johnson, directed us to the hospital for some laboratory culture tests. We drove there—about two miles away—and nonchalantly walked into the ritzy—and, I presumed, private — hospital. We were an eyesore. Both dressed in messy fatigues, neither one of us shaven, both wearing steel helmets with camouflage, and both carrying M-1 rifles. (We had little choice as to the latter: I wasn't about to leave a loaded weapon in a vehicle, on a public street.)

"Liberating Paris"

Everyone noticed us, of course, and a couple men even came over and asked me how things were going, and so forth. It seemed as though we had come to liberate Paris. Just before we left, about 45 minutes later, a young lady who was in the laboratory, came up and asked me, "Tell me, it's a lot worse than they say, isn't it?" I told her no, it wasn't and that the newspapers were reporting it fairly (Journalist to the last!).

It was this incident which strikes me the most about our stay in Milwaukee. These people were scared. They had read about what happened in Detroit and Newark and now saw it about to happen to their hometown. And I'm sure they truly looked upon the National Guard as liberators.

There is no real reason why the Guauld should have been held in such high esteem, actually, although it certainly was a symbol of what was being done by the mayor and governor to calm the messy situation.

I had always been somewhat 'down" on the Guard, simply because we so very seldom do anything that is as constructive as, say, winning a war. But all of a sudden, I had the feeling that the Guard had done its job, that it was needed to quell a ticklish situation, and it did it.

The city of Milwaukee was shut down — tight. Each individual Guardsman had only a small job to do, myself included. But it was the grand sum of all these little, routine jobs that made the mission a success. This is the theory behind an army massing its forces, of course, but it was the first time I had ever seen it put to good use.

Police Impressive

Another thing that impressed me was the Milwaukee police. They rode around, four men to a vehicle, throughout the riot areas. We Guardsmen — and I speak only for myself — felt quite amateurish, but these police were the pros. We did our jobs in a quiet manner — it seemed, almost, as if we were doing nothing — and they rode around in their vehicles. If we were doing nothing, they must be doing all the work, for wasn't the "battle" won?

Besides my long trip to the hospital, I got to do what I was trained to do — be a medic — once during my two days in Milwaukee I was assigned to Co. A of Marinette during one slow afternoon (only the nights were fast) and a trooper from that unit approached me with a problem. I gave him a bottle of calamine lotion for his poison ivy and patted myself on the back for a job well done.

And while I fortunately never had to use my M-1 rifle, I did manage to find a use for my bayonet. I was talking with a city policeman early one morning and he said something to me which I wanted to remember. I had only a broken golf pencil in my pocket, so sharpened it with the bayonet and wrote the quote down on some document or other from my wallet. True Army resourcefulness.

I have heard that 99.8 per cent of the city's Negroes were against whatever their guilty brethren were doing. I saw an example of this about midnight Tuesday at about Capitol and 12th. A Negro had a television set out on the corner, with a long extension cord leading into his house. Guardsmen took a peek at it frequently, I assume, although when my deuce-and-a-half truck drove by, they were busy scanning the rooftops for snipers.

Anyone not in uniform was persona non grata in the riot zones, at least during the early days of the rioting. Newspaper reporters were at the head of the list, although a couple times photographers talked the Guardsmen into posing shots for them. (I can't imagine why a photographer would want to pose a shot when there were so many non-posable situations to take pictures of.)

One particularly resourceful person managed to get through all roadblocks without ever getting stopped. He was a Catholic priest and his guise was simple. He wore an Army uniform, complete with steel helmet. I remember the priest from an encampment we had this spring down in the Kettle Moraine area. He had said at the time that he had applied to his bishop for military duty but was rejected; so he took a weekend assignment during the Guards' encampment. May God forgive me, I believe that this priest almost enjoyed the riots as having given him a chance to administer to troops in a "combat" zone. Of course, since he had no Roman collar, he heard more barracks cussing then he ordinarily would have.

I was particularly irked during my trip to the hospital when Pfc. Johnson of Green Bay failed to do something I requested of him. We were at the W. Silver Springs Road encampment of another Guard unit (I was returning a soldier there as a favor to the

Next 5 Years May Cost City $7.5 Million for New Schools

Modern Buildings, Equipment Only Route to Quality Education

BY MAIJA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

It is no secret that the growing pupil population, combined with the stepped-up and modernized education needs, demands new schools and modernization of existing buildings

And it is even less a secret in Appleton that 12 of the 23 existing schools were constructed since 1951, a span of only 18 years. Previous to this time, the city operated with one high school, two junior high schools and 11 elementary schools, which included a smattering of the smaller buildings, each accommodating only about 200 children.

This is the third in a series of articles on where the money to operate Appleton schools comes from and how it is spent.

A dozen schools, unfortunately, cost money and in the next five years, it will cost Appleton taxpayers an estimated $7.5 million.

District Burden

That figure, combined with the $5 million Appleton High School-East and the $1.4 million Highlands Elementary School both of which will open this fall, will certainly put a burden on the joint district.

But up to now, no one has come up with a new or better way to provide an equal-opportunity education than by providing up-to-date schools, equal in quality to other schools in the state.

A five-year capital improvement program has been compiled by the board of education, shown below:

1967 — Opening of AHS-East, $5 million, and Highlands Elementary School, $1.3 million.

1968 — Madison Junior High School addition-12 rooms, $500,000, and South side elementary school-28 classrooms, $1.5 million.

1969 — Appleton High-West remodeling (science laboratories, home economics, modern foreign language, speech, business education and additions to shop and physical education facilities, $1 million: Wilson Junior High addition (includes classrooms, libraries, shops, music and physical education facilities), $750,000 and Roosevelt Junior High remodeling (same as Wilson), $750,000.

1970 — Elementary School-28 classrooms (near Einstein Junior High), $1.5 million.

1971 — Either an addition to the Johnston Elementary School or a new facility on the Colony Oaks Site, $750,000 to $1.5 million.

Additional Sites Needed

In addition to the physical plants listed above, it will be necessary to buy a 12 - acre site in the south side as well as six additional acres immediately north of Einstein.

It should also be borne in mind that the cost figures for physical facilities listed are based on recent building experiences and may have to be escalated at about 5 per cent per year to keep pace with the increasing cost of construction.

No doubt about it, it costs money to open a new school building. But traditionally Appleton can be proud of the low cost of its schools.

With the exception of AHS-E, which cost the city $15.21 a square foot, not one of the dozen schools built in the last 17 years has gone over the $15 figure, the majority falling into the $12 a square foot category.

And this tradition of getting one's money's worth will not be broken this year when the Highlands, built for 900 pupils, which is at least 200 more children than the other elementaries have, costs $10.93 a square foot. This is the lowest of the school costs, in a time when building costs are rising at a tremendous rate.

But, it isn't the cost of paying for the building alone. That building has to be staffed. It has to have supplies; it has to be lighted, heated, cleaned; it has to have books, desks, projectors; it has insurance costs, bus costs and maintenence costs. And most of all, it has to have teachers, which this year took 74.1 per cent of the total cost of operation.

Opening and operating a school is an expensive proposition and a projected increase of 64 per cent in expenditures over the next five years is expected by the city.

But as long as children continue to need an education, they will need the schools, the equipment and the teachers. There is no substitute for them nor for the money it takes to get them.

Aged Milwaukee Woman Struck By Auto, Dies

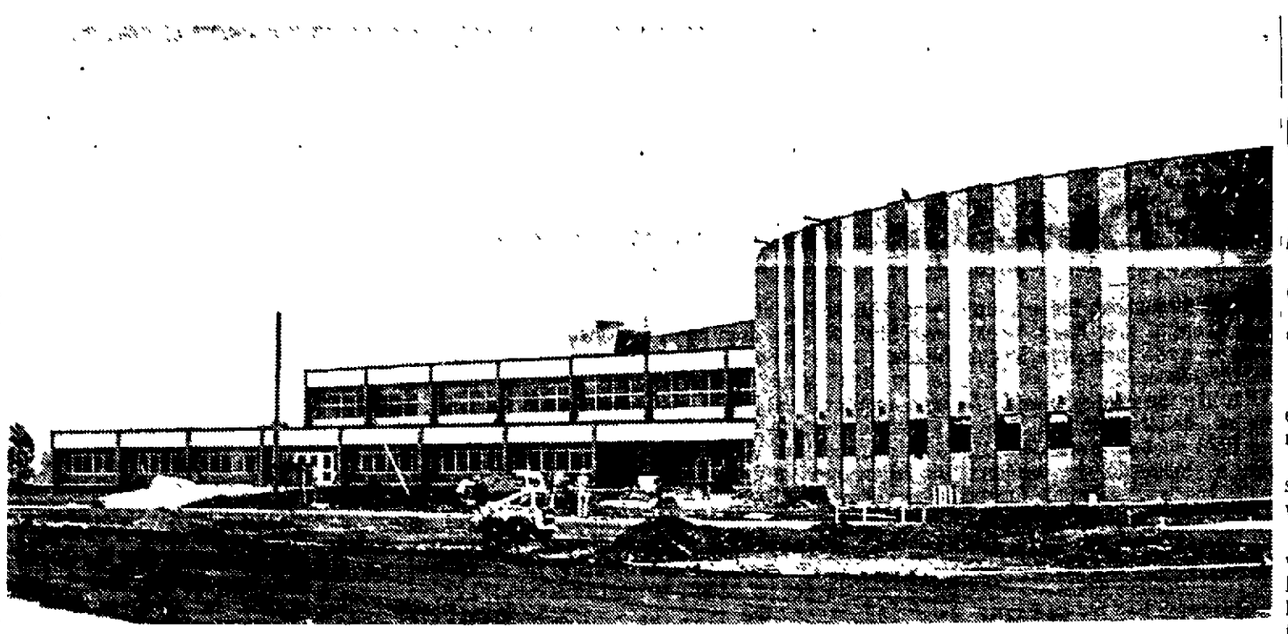

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin's 1967 highway death toll stood at 612 today—the same figure as on this date last year, when a tragic record was set for traffic fatalities.

Mrs. Alvina Gaulke, 79, of Milwaukee, was killed Monday night when she was struck by a car while she was walking across a city street.

Dale Schultz, 7, of Antigo, died at a hospital there Monday afternoon of injuries suffered Sunday in a crash that also claimed the lives of his parents and another man.

Elmer R. Schaefer, Jr., 18, of rural Allenton was killed early Monday when his car left Washington County Trunk W W, two miles northeast of Allenton.

The New and the Old are exemplified by Appleton High School-East, above, and Washington, which was closed this year. AHS-E is one of two modern schools opening this fall and one of 12 constructed in the last 17 years. (Post - Crescent Photos) expressed in the county ordinance; and —Enforce the county provisions of the state's new clean water laws.

County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, going along with DeLaHunt's comment that health problems aren't confined to municipal boundaries, went one step further in explaining that problems aren't confined to county boundaries.

As a result, he said, the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Plan Commission is asking each of its nine member counties to create similar positions.

Outagamie County, by its action, this morning becomes the first in the region and one of the first in Wisconsin to create the job.

Immediate Search

DeLaHunt says the search will start for a man immediately and added. "We hope to have him at work before the winter freeze-up."

To provide for salary and expenses for the balance of the year for the sanitarian, $6,000 was transferred from the reserve contingency fund. No definite salary was mentioned for the position.

The 10 opposition votes to creating the position came from Conradt, Tillman, Chris Roepcke (Cicero), Emmett Root (Ellington), Robert Weyenberg (Kimberly), Joseph Weyers (Freedom), Norman Austin (Oneida), Henry Breiting (Bear Creek), Joseph DeBruin (Buchanan) and Walter Fredericks, (New London).

VTE-12 Will Sponsor Plumbing Trade School

Appleton Firm Makes Agreement With Board to Provide Equipment, Facilities

The Area Board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education, District 12 (VTE-12) has contracted a teaching services agreement with Central Valley Plumbing and Heating Contractors Association and the Joint Apprenticeship and Training Committee (JAC).

The action taken at the VTE-12 board meeting Monday at the Appleton Vocational, Technical and Adult School takes effect Sept. 1 and runs for one year.

Under the agreement VTE-12 will provide teaching services, staff and administration personnel for the pipe trades industry school to be located in a JAC building at 728 Westland Drive, Appleton.

Facilities, training equipment and insurance will be provided by JAC under terms of the contract. Fees for training would be paid by students.

In other action, the board, still in the process of reorganization as the administrative body for vocational instruction in 23 area communities, approved a proposal for workman's compensation insurance to cover all VTE-12 facilities, replacing policies taken out by the separate schools.

Proposals for the transfer of liability and hospital-surgical insurance to the district name were also discussed bur formal action was delayed until a later date.

District director William Sirek, Oshkosh, requested authorization to hire an Oshkosh area coordinator, assistant director and business manager for district 12 and a secretary for the director.

Sirek was authorized to advertise for candidates for the positions and was directed to prepare a proposed organizational structure for the district.

The board met in executive session to discuss the formalization of a salary schedule for district administrative positions.

In other action the board:

—Set registration fees for programs in the district at $5 for full-time day students; $2 for evening courses; $5 for activity fees, and $3 for day apprentice extension courses. It was noted that the fee schedule will go into effect throughout the district in January and this fall in schools that have not advertised the previous schedule.

Future Looks Grim as Red Chinese Perfect H-Bomb; But There's Hope

Editor's Note: Unbidden but determined, Red China has become a full-fledged member of the nuclear club. Its pace in atomic weaponry, its politics, and its outlook all suggest profound and ominous consequences for the rest of the world. This is the last of three articles.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE and WILLIAM L. RYAN

Soon Red China will have a finger on the button. Will she, by accident or design, launch a nuclear catastrophe?

Fallout effects of China's H-bomb test last June 17 are enormous. The impact on the vast underdeveloped world is incalculable.

For 18 years the United States and the Soviet Union have warily confronted one another with awesome nuclear arsenals but have managed to preserve nuclear peace. They know what nuclear war could mean.

China, though still a fledgling member of the nuclear club, drastly alters the peace equation. Caught in the madness of the purge that Mao Tse-tung calls the cultural revolution, she is a puzzling X, perhaps even to herself.

Many Questions

Experts put many worried questions:

—Do Chinese leaders really know what a nuclear war could mean in human casualties and physical destruction?

—Suppose Red China donated a nuclear weapon to an Arab nation, out of a desire to make the Chinese dragon bigger than the Russian bear in the Middle East. Israel, some scientists say, "practically has the basic stuff lying around" to produce weapons in a few years. Might a new Middle East war some day be an atomic one?

—About 20 nations have the capability, some with little or no outside help, of building a nuclear weapon. Will Red China's success put pressure on those governments to produce such weapons?

—Is China really the "crazy, reckless, paranoid country" she appears to be to outsiders, or is her behavior just a passing phenomenon created by Mao's eagerness to shape Chinese into selfless robots?

—Might India and Japan, close enough to feel the hot breath of China's threat, feel compelled now to produce nuclear weapons? Either one can. Only Japan knows the horrors, first hand, of nuclear weapons. Those used against it were the first A-bombs, enormously destructive but still less powerful than H-bombs.

So deep was the Japanese shock that public opinion violently opposed building such weapons for a Japanese arsenal, and even slowed Japan's development of peaceful atomic power. But now Japan faces a cruel choice: to demand more protection from America—and perhaps from the Soviet Union too—or to gamble that she will not some day be a target of China.

Time has eroded memories of the full terror that the atomic bombs of 22 years ago brought to Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Perhaps more than half the world's population is too young to know much about it. Perhaps, some observers suggest, this fading memory figured in the relative calm with which Asian nations reacted to China's new power. There may be other reasons, too.

Some of the worry among China's neighbors—India, Japan, Burma, Australia, Malaysia, Indonesia—has been eased by the spectacle of Mao's cultural revolution, suggesting vast political, social and economic turmoil in China. Will the strife not eventually slow or even halt China's nuclear program?

It hasn't, up to now, and the chances seem to be that it will not.

Ten years ago some of China's scientists, including those returned from the United States, were caught in a Mao trap: the Hundred Flowers period, when Mao invited open criticism of his regime. The criticism came in a wave, and then Mao cracked down hard on the critics.

But important scientists got off lightly Mao distrusted those who had been abroad long years, fearing that they had been contaminated by American and other foreign ideas. But Mao also needed them. They were required only to make routine formal confessions. Other intellectuals were forced into corrective labor for re-education.

And in the cultural revolution, Mao's supporters took care to insulate the important scientists. Rule 12 of the Aug. 8, 1966, communique that launched Mao's Red Guards, the storm troopers of political orthodoxy, took care to steer them clear of the scientists.

Still, the cultural revolution damaged China's prestige among underdeveloped nations, as did China's abortive diplomatic offensives in Africa and Asia. Perhaps, some Asians reasoned, China was so badly off balance that it could not risk any deep international trouble.

One top China watcher for the U.S. government speculated that "17 years of political infighting left the Chinese people bone-weary of it all: China watchers believe they are witnessing a chance of dynasty. Great revisions may come."

But, if Mao's philosophy wins out, Asians will have to take another look

Few doubt that China eventually will be the dominant power in Asia. It has the resources, and energetic, clever people. The ifs involve China's problems of food, population, education, training, industrialization, advances in science other than in the nuclear field, and, most of all, solving the present political chaos

So far China has avoided direct involvement in Vietnam. China wants to give no excuse for an obliterative attack on her new nuclear installations.

But whatever happens, China is going to be a major problem, for both the United States and the Soviet Union

In direct military threat, the United States seems to have little to fear from China until the mid-1970s.

For the United States, various experts agree, one consequence of China's nuclear march will be increased pressure to develop antiballistic missiles to intercept and destroy any incoming enemy missiles. The ABM cost to taxpayers could range anywhere from $4 billion to $70 billion, perhaps just as a starter, for limited defenses.

"It is no longer a question of whether to have them, but when," declares Sen Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., long a member of military and atomic energy committees Others argue that ABMs will trigger a spiral in the arms race, forcing the Soviet Union to strengthen its striking force or expand its own ABMs.

Arguing against extensive ABM efforts now, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says that probably "all we would accomplish would be to increase greatly both their defense expenditures and ours, without any gain in real security to either side."

Practical testing of ABMs could violate the limited nuclear treaty which bans atmospheric testing.

Chinese bombs affect Soviet thinking, too. A ban on ABM systems must be considered among "the whole range of questions relating to arms and disarmament," said Premier Alexei N. Kosygin just after China exploded her H-bomb.

China is an infuriating problem to Moscow. China's rulers claim to be the true Communists and denounce the Communist parties in the Soviet Union and elsewhere as "revisionist" betrayers of world revolution. China's feud with Moscow, aggravated by Peking's eagerness for nuclear arms, has ripped the fabric of world Communist unity to shreds.

Peking, calling the Soviet Union its enemy, has laid claim to 600,000 square miles of Soviet territory. The Chinese, with increasing frequency, stir up trouble on Soviet borders. Moscow pumps inflammatory propaganda into Chinese border provinces populated predominantly by non-Chinese people.

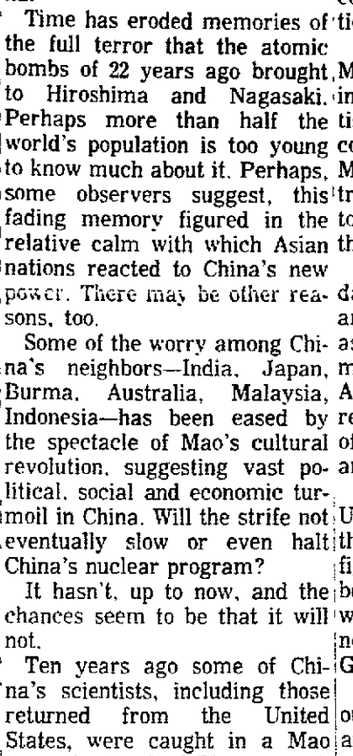

She can develop long-range rockets, they say, by brute engineering. A missile good enough to hit within five miles of an intended target could wipe out Moscow or Leningrad, or Los Angeles or San Francisco. But China, with her vast territory and primarily agrarian population, offers fewer strategic targets. Missiles aimed at China would have to pinpoint missile sites.

In any case, America's China policy is up for re-examination. The average American, looking at the situation, feels helpless, but there are glimpses of optimism

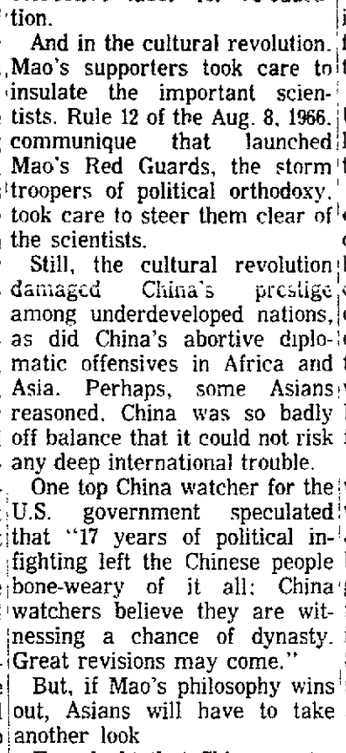

"It's been a dangerous world for a long time," Sen. Jackson remarks. "But the cataclysmic nature of nuclear warfare has to be a restraining influence. It means destroying mankind. Nuclear weapons carry an enormous responsibility. Failure to understand the nature of nuclear war means annihilation."

He and others points out that the U.S.S.R. modified its stance as it grew more powerful, as its living standards rose, and it had more to lose from holocaust.

Some hope the future will see a wearing down of "hard corners of truth," the beliefs that one country or one group has the absolute truth which others must accept

Next-to-Last Rerun of 'Fugitive'

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 Channels 11-6-9 — "Goodbye My Love" is an apt title for The Fugitive which is only one more rerun away from its two-part finale. The episode is helped by Marlyn Mason's fine performance as a singer who enchants David Janssen, but who also recognizes him as a wanted man and used that knowledge to entrap him. Jack Lord and Patricia Smith play husband and crippled wife, one of whom is very much in Miss Mason's way. (C-R)

8-9:45 Channels 4-5 — "Visit to a Small Planet" on Tuesday Night at the Movies casts Jerry Lewis in a role that was played by Cyril Ritchard on Broadway, and that's the funniest thing about the picture It's clumsy and heavy-handed where it should be light and charming Jerry is a space creature who lands on earth and complicates the life of TV commentator Fred Clark. 6:30-7:30 Channels 4-5 — April Dancer takes it right on the chin in The Girl From U.N.C.L.E. from a round-house right thrown by a weakling pencil-pusher. Appleton City Band Sets Toes A-Tapping

Good Music Out-of-Doors Happens Every Tuesday Night in Pierce Park

BY JINGO

Appleton residents who enjoy bands are missing and opportunity to hear good music in the out-of-doors if they pass up the weekly concerts by the Appleton City Band.

Jingo

Tonight's concert, which begins at 7:45 p.m. in Pierce Park, is sure to be 90 minutes of easy listening. There will be the stirring marches for which bands are known, but also there will be experiences in other types of music.

Jingo was at last week's concert, and the variety of the music and the pleasure which it gave to both the band and the sizeable audience was a sight to please any concertgoer.

Dixieland Quintet

There was the swinging Dixieland quintet, which obviously enjoyed its music and set toes tapping instantly among its listeners. A rendition of the Spanish tune "Granada" was well received, as was a medley from "The Music Man" by Meredith Wilson.

Introductions to classical and melodic modern music also held the attention of the audience, probably because the doses were neither too heavy nor too long.

Informal Dress

Dress is informal at the concerts and the audience includes toddlers with their mothers to oldsters on bikes and in cars. But the music of Ivan "Ike" Spangenberg and his musicians is strictly for the young in spirit. More taxpayers should take advantage of these concerts, which are paid for by their city's budget.

Good news comes from Viking manager Wayne Berkley, who reports "Up the Down Staircase," a real movie gem, is being held through Thursday.

"Up the Down Staircase," based on Bel Kaufman's best-selling book, looks compassionately and realistically inside a contemporary problem high school in Metropolitan, U.S.A.

Appearing with her are several hundred young teen-agers who never before have acted professionally. Among them are six youngsters worth watching.

Proxmire Asks $427 Million Cut In Space Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Monday the space budget should be cut by $427 million

"We have to establish our priorities and when it comes to parceling out money the space program stands far below defense, education and many other vital programs," he said in testimony for a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee.

A recent poll, he said, shows the American people are getting tired of spending billions on space and a majority of those polled felt spending $4 billion a year to put a man on the moon wasn't worth it.

Buenos Aires Bans British Play Which Was Hailed in London

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The municipal government banned "The Homecoming," a play by British author Harold Pinter, as obscene one recent night two hours before curtain time. The play opened three night earlier.

The play has been shown on Broadway and in Washington, D.C., and was praised by critics after earlier showings in London.

The story is about a college professor who returns from the United States to London and finds his brothers and father have a lustful yen for his wife.

Peninsula Players In Pulitzer Prize Play Through Sunday

The Pulitzer Prize winning drama, Edward Albee's "A Delicate Balance", opens tonight at the Peninsula Players, Fish Creek, and runs through Sunday.

In "A Delicate Balance" Albee again dissects man's perplexed and kaliedoscopic nature and hopes to remodel him piece by piece into a rational and articulate being. The play is man's search for himself, for what he is not sure

In the specially assembled cast will be Jean Leslie and Carl Bensen playing the roles of Agnes and Tobias. Maggy Magerstadt and Otto Schlesinger will portray Edna and Harry with Lorinne Vozoff as Claire Dounia Rathbone will play Julia, the daughter of Agnes and Tobias.

Tickets are available at the box office and in the Fox Cities at Newman's in Appleton. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

They are Jeff Howard, Ellen O'Mara, Jose Rodriguez, John Fantauzi, Salvatore Rasa and Lew Wallach, all in important supporting roles of students.

Poison Ivy May be Lessened by Shots

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: In an article on poison ivy, you said it was your understanding that injections were worthless but you would be willing to stand corrected if there was real evidence to the contrary.

My 5-year-old son would get ivy poisoning every spring and have it all summer until the plant died. His eyes would swell shut, his ears, mouth, even genital organs would swell. He was miserable and a pitiful sight.

Creams and lotions didn't help. Being a child, he scratched and made things worse and I had to take him to the doctor about three times a week for treatment to reduce swelling.

Then our doctor suggested shots. The next spring, before the plant came up, he had a shot every week for five weeks. He got poison ivy that year, but only small bumps on his hand, and lotion cleared them up overnight. He has had boosters since, in the spring, and this is his third year. The doctor warned us they might not work, but we are very grateful that they did for us. — Mrs. D. N.

I guess we didn't achieve a very good meeting of the minds when I wrote previously I maintain that I know of no shot that can "cure" a person to the extent of preventing ivy poisoning, any more than there is a "cure" for hay fever.

Extreme sensitivity, however, can sometimes by reduced in the same fashion that sensitivity to ragweed and such pollens can be reduced by desensitization.

This evidently is what Mrs. D. N.'s youngster had — a series of desensitization shots, with boosters in subsequent years.

Her letter is one of quite a number I received, including some from manufacturers.

All I can say is that when the extract of ivy poison (or poison oak) is used in this manner, whether in the form of drops, tablets or injections, it should be done under a physician's supervision, because reactions can occur, and can be as annoying as a case of poison ivy.

You can't guarantee success; you must be careful and watchful. But I certainly would not want anyone to forego the benefits, if such treatment can indeed help him.

I was pleased, incidentally, to note that the brochure from one manufacturer included emphasis on precautions to be taken, a fair and honest approach.

Physicians are not in agreement on the efficacy, and the reason may well lie in the fact that although some folks benefit, others expect too much and do not observe due caution in avoiding ivy.

There's another interesting letter I'll print tomorrow.

Dear Sir: Will you please castigate or inform those who still buy, sell, consume and offer unpasteurized milk regardless of their claims that herds have been inspected? These people represent the weak link in the community in eradication of disease, namely, T.B., etc — M.P.P.

I have. I'll repeat: more than T.B. is involved. Typhoid, brucellosis, undulant fever, and other diseases can be transmitted. Inspection of a herd is fine, but not all diseases can be spotted immediately. Besides, the law says milk must be pasteurized. I wouldn't, under any circumstances, allow unpasteurized milk in my house

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any cure for condyloma accuminatum and does it ever become cancerous? — L.S.

That's the technical term for warts in the genital-anal region. These can be removed effectively and relatively simply but don't try to do it yourself. It requires a physician, preferably a skin specialist or urologist. There is no connection with cancer.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Post-Crescent requesting a copy of the booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. (Copyright, 1967)

Butterflies Or Man, One Has to Go

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A Portland State College professor says butterflies and people cannot live together.

"You can't have progress and a continuing healthful atmosphere for butterflies in the same area," contends biologist Ralph Macy. "One or the other has to go."

Macy explained that when people inhabit an area they bring insecticides, weed killers and bulldozers with them. "The process of urbanization leaves no loopholes for butterflies," he said.

He said that when people are faced with the choice of cultivating beautiful gardens or preserving the butterflies, the butterflies generally lose.

Guardsman-Newsman Muses Over Riot Duty

armory) when we approached an Army colonel. I saw the silver eagle on his shoulder and said to Johnson, "Be sure to salute this guy." No salute was made and I was sure I was about to get chewed out when the colonel shouted at me to stop. I got out running, saluted and was told my vehicle was dragging a strap through the rear exit. When we came back that way, I again told Johnson to do the saluting (he was assistant driver, so that was his job). He didn't, but I guess we had no more straps dragging, because we weren't stopped.

Of all the misery which the all-up caused to Guardsmen, the worst of all was not being deprived of spending a week with their families, nor was it being kept away from their jobs for so long a time. I actually heard a couple Guardsmen discussing, in a joking (I assume) manner, their plans to go AWOL. There was, you will remember, a Green Bay Packer game that Friday down in Chicago. While the men didn't want to go to Chicago particularly, they would have appreciated it if they could have gotten to the nearest bar and seen the game on television. It's just as good they didn't try to escape. The bars were all closed.

I witnessed one particularly memorable moment the first night on guard duty. I was at Center Street and First Street, only one block from the corner which had witnessed two deaths on Sunday night. Several Army and police vehicles had congregated at the intersection and were making their usual noise, so that we didn't notice a white Corvair sneak up on us from the south on First Street. (Before you condemn us for being derelict in our duty, please remember that we were not guards, but medics; but it is true, no one should have snuck up on us.)

Anyhow, a buddy and I first noticed the car. Fred ran over to the vehicle, yelled at the two young white men inside to get out. His M-1 and bayonet were leveled at the occupants, who hurriedly complied. One of the men said "Don't shoot" and the two of them showed ID's which identified them as reporters. Afterward, Fred said, with a somewhat cocky smile on his face, "Well, how'd I do?" What he had done was scare the pants off two young reporters, no doubt college students working as summer interns. If the same scene had happened at summer camp, when there is rarely any air of urgency for anything, everyone would have laughed at the "tough guy" role Fred had played. But somehow laughing at Center and First seemed inappropriate. Fred was serious and so were the two reporters. And so was all of Milwaukee.

Sail-Your-Plate Game Is Fun on a Sandy Beach

BY CAPPY DICK

The game described here may be played in any open outdoor area where a six-foot circle can be formed, but it is especially well-suited to a sandy beach.

Mark Each Plate

In addition to the circle, which can be drawn in the sand with a stick, each player will need a paper plate on which he has printed his name for identification.

The players stand at a taw-line 30 feet from the circle and take turns sailing their paper plates through the air to land within the circle.

If a player succeeds, he earns 10 points for that turn. If his plate falls short of the circle, or sails across it and lands outside, he earns nothing.

The player who builds the biggest total score in 20 turns is the winner of the game.

If the players become so skillful in aiming and tossing their plates that they seldom miss, increase the difficulty by extending the taw-line 10 feet, making the distance to be covered by a toss 40 feet instead of 30.

Cooper and Kokor Allow Just 1 Run

BY TIM PETERMANN
Post-Crescent News Service

The cry that is being heard around the National League — "Stop those Cardinals" — is being echoed throughout the Midwest League, to the tune of "Stop those Foxes".

The Appleton Foxes used a balance of hitting and pitching to extend their win streak to five games with a doubleheader sweep from Decatur at Goodland Field Monday night TMHE double victory increased the streaking Foxes' league lead to four games

Tonight, Appleton will attempt to stretch its win skein to six, a feat it has not accomplished all year despite the fact that it has four 5-game win streaks Al Fitzmorris, the co-winningest pitcher in the Midwest League with a 13-5 mark, is slated to start on the mound as the Foxes begin a 3-game set with Quincy's Cubs on "St. Thomas More Booster Night"

In his last outing, Fitzmorris established a club record when he completed his 16th game. The old record of 15 was set by Dean Chance in 1960.

Hits Home Run

Righthander Durant Cooper pitched 3-hit ball and cracked a home run in his support as the Foxes won last night's opener, 4-0 Lanky Steve Kokor came within a hair of another shutout in the nightcap as he hurled a 5-hitter en route to a 9-1 victory.

The route-going performances were the fifth and sixth in succession for the Appleton mound corps The twin bill ended the season series with the Commodores with the Foxes holding a 10-1 edge. Over a 2-year period, Appleton has a 24-1 mark against Decatur.

In posting their latest win streak, the Foxes' pitchers have limited opponents to seven runs, four of which were earned. They have held opposing hitters to 25-for-146 at the plate for a 171 average. (Decatur as a team was leading the league in hitting with a .288 mark.) They have walked only three batters in 41 innings

Rebel Browns Drop Demands, Sign Contracts

Two Pay Fines of $1,400 Each; Kelly To Play Out Option

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three of five Cleveland Browns who held out from reporting to training camp since July 22 will play for the National Football League team the Browns announced Monday The other two have been traded.

Returning to the Browns for the season are halfback Leroy Kelly, who last year had the best rushing average and the most touchdowns in the league, and guard John Wooten, who started in last year's Pro Bowl game

Linebacker Sid Williams was traded to the New York Giants for a draft choice or a player to be announced later. Tackle John Brown was traded last week to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Defensive back Mike Howell said he will join the Browns in San Francisco this weekend He said they will talk about the contract there. Howell was the only one of the holdouts to report to camp, but later left. He is completing two weeks training with the National Guard

Wooten and Kelly agreed to pay fines of $1,400 each, figured at a rate of $100 a day for each day missed at the Hiram, Ohio, training camp

Puzzled By Action

In negotiations between the players' attorney, Negro State Rep Carl B. Stokes, and Browns' owner Art Modell, it was decided to drop most of the original demands, including collective bargaining by the five and trading all the holdouts if one was traded Modell said he was "puzzled and mystified" about Kelly's decision to play out his option. He said Kelly agreed to a new contract Sunday afternoon. However, Kelly said Monday he was not going to sign a contract.

Kelly had the league's best rushing average of 5.5 yards a carry on 1,141 yards and 209 carries. He finished second in total rushing behind Chicago's Gale Sayers. Kelly had the most touchdowns with 15 and the longest run with a 70-yard touchdown jaunt against the Atlanta Falcons.

In a statement, Stokes said Kelly will take a 10 per cent cut in pay and play out his option with the intention of becoming a free agent The pay cut is automatic.

Hyland Expected To See Action at Tackle Saturday

Bob One of 4 Rookies Vying For Berth in Offensive Line

Post Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — A new face appeared at a strange position as the Packers reassembled on the South Oneida Street practice fields, Monday.

The former belongs to Bob Hyland, the huge Boston College alumnus, who was running through his first practice since reporting from the College All-Stars.

Hyland, who had been listed at both center and guard on the Pack's training camp roster, was not to be found at either station — he was holding forth at left tackle.

Although Coach Vince Lombardi had announced, at his preseason press conference, that the 6-5½, 260-pound White Plains, N.Y., native would be a candidate for employment at all positions in the offensive line, the development was something of a surprise — particularly to Hyland.

Bob, who had understudied Ken Bowman at center in mid-July before joining the All-Star squad, reported it had been a new experience for him. "I've never played there before in my life," the 21-year-old New Englander, used at both guard and center as a collegian, confessed.

Will Play Saturday

"It came as a surprise," he added, "but it doesn't bother me. The idea, as Coach Wietecha explained it to me, is to try to get me into the Steeler game here Saturday night. At guard, I couldn't do it that soon. I couldn't learn all the techniques fast enough"

In addition to readying the Pack's No. 1 draftee for the Steeler exercise, the move presumably is part of a project which will find Hyland becoming a "swing man" — an alternate at all positions in the attacking unit's front line. At least until it is determined where his considerable talents can be put to maximum use.

How does he find it at tackle? "I think I'll have to play there a while before I decide," was the reply. "But today I didn't run into anything I objected to."

"The pass blocking is going to be different," he further observed. "You have to maintain a perimeter with the defensive end at that position, whereas at guard, the defensive tackle might come from either side."

"In that way, it might be a little easier . . . We'll have to wait and see."

Hyland is one of four freshmen competing for a berth in the offensive line. The other hopefuls are Tom Cichowski (Maryland) and Dick Arndt (Idaho), both tackles, and Roy Schmidt (Long Beach State), back for a second fling at guard after spending the 1966 season on the taxi squad

Incumbents up front, of course, are Bob Skoronski, all-pro Forrest Gregg and Steve Wright at tackle and Jerry Kramer, another all-pro, Fuzzy Thurston and Gale Gillingham

Lee Roy Caffey is the envy of the Pack's golfing fraternity at the moment . The jetlike linebacker fired a hole-in-1 at Manitowoc's Branch River Country Club over the weekend, arching his tee shot into the cup on the par-3 154-yard No. 17. A fringe benefit, it develops, is that his spectacular brought Caffey and his partner, Donny Anderson, from behind to victory in a match with fellow linebacker Tommy Crutcher and flanker Jeff White . . . Lee Roy, who reported he has played "about 20 rounds of golf in my life," declined to discuss his total. Unconfirmed reports, however, place it at more than 100.

A rigorous punt coverage drill climaxed Monday morning's practice — it was spiced by Lombardi's edict that anyone detected holding a returner would be required to run again. Although two groups had to take a second turn, their example effectively discouraged any further "violations". Jim Mankins, first-year fullback from Florida State, was the hit of Monday night's dinner entertainment at the St. Norbert College Union with his harmonica solo, "You Are My Sunshine."

Little Chute Fund Drive Reaches $3,000 Mark

"We'll definitely be going, but getting there is another problem."

That was the word from player-manager Roger Gerrits of the Little Chute baseball team Monday night concerning his club's plans to participate in the National Baseball Congress tournament at Wichita, Kan., beginning Aug. 14.

"We've collected a little over $3,000," Gerrits beamed, which is about ¾ of the way home to the original goal of $4,000 needed for the journey's expenses. "Now we have to find a way to get there."

Other arrangements for travel are being sought, but should those efforts fail, the team will leave Saturday or Sunday in an 8-car caravan on a trip of some 900 miles

Little Chute opens play Monday night against a yet-unnamed opponent. The tournament is a double-elmination affair involving teams from all over the country.

Gerrits revealed that Little Chute has picked up two players from Monona Grove, the team that finished second to Little Chute in the finals of the Wisconsin State Amateur Tournament. They are catcher Tom Huset, a University of Wisconsin product, and left-handed pitcher Dick Stephens.

Don't Believe in Dog Days

Angler's Enthusiasm May Wilt in August But Fish Stay Hungry

By DON L. JOHNSON
The Milwaukee Sentinel

MILWAUKEE (AP)— Lakes shimmering, simmering under the midsummer sun. Algae blooming bright as fresh, green paint on the ponds. These are the "dog days" when even the most determined angler's enthusiasm may wilt.

The fish aren't biting, many fishermen complain. They have sore mouths, some explain. A man is apt to get such notions, sitting in a boat and broiling his brain.

Truth to tell, August isn't a bad month for fishing. It can be an especially good time for landing lunkers, once you've learning to beat the heat. Sometimes that involves little more than getting up before the sun.

Dog days were named by the ancients, not because it was a time when fishing went to the dogs but because they are the period when the constellations of the dog stars—brilliant Sirius and bright Procyon—hunt the heavens by day. There is nothing to suggest that, by night or day, they are unlucky stars for anglers.

Record Fish

The record books reveal, in fact, that a number of record fish have been caught in August. They include a 22½ pound landlocked salmon from Maine, an 8 pound black bullhead from New York, an 11½ pound Sunapee trout from New Hampshire, an 11 pound golden trout from Wyoming, a 5 pound grayling from Canada, and a 25 pound walleye from Tennessee.

In Wisconsin waters bass are one of the best bets in August. It's a month when the reefs off Door County can be expected to produce some of their biggest smallmouths. Largemouth bass may be even easier to locate during this period but are somewhat harder to tempt into taking a bait.

Become Listless

Like us, fish become listless when it's hot. Various species have different ranges of temperature tolerance, but when the sun's sizzling high in the sky even a sunfish seeks some shade.

Remember that weed beds and lily pads offer not only shelter from the sun, but an abundance of oxygen being freed by growing plants. A period of hot, still weather means little wave action to stir air into the water. Since fish need free oxygen to breath, such times keep them deep in the weeds.

Even an algae bloom provides shade and oxygen—until benefits are reversed by death and decomposition of the tiny plants. Although the water may seem thick as pea soup, it's usually quite clear and much cooler just a few feet under the surface. Fish may be found there too.

And every angler knows that the shade of an overhanging tree—or better, one which lies in the water—is a first class place to try for sunfish on a summer day. Shade, and an occasional falling insect, are the attractions.

Most Productive

For most gamefish, early morning hours will be most productive during dog days—and the best time is often these wee hours when the bullfrogs are still twanging their bass fiddles in the darkness.

Starting out about midnight, try casting along the edges of the weedbeds. (Today's relatively foolproof spinning tackle makes this a lot easier than it used to be, for an old-fashioned backlash was almost impossible to undo in the dark). Weedless lures, such as a pork frog, can be skittered over the weeds to bring big bass out of their lairs.

A flyrod works fine too. A big white fly is effective, and easier to keep in sight. A dab of that plastic tape which glows in the dark is helpful on a small popper too. Casts need not be long. Crappies—huge ones—are frequently taken by this method. But know what else will hit those same flies in the same spots at night? Great big walleyes is what.

Worked Low, Slow

After the cool of dawn is gone, baits should be worked low and slow. Try sitting over a reef or bar and casting to deep water, working the bait oh-so-slowly up the underwater slope. Since fish don't have big appetites in hot weather, a piece of nightcrawler often works better than a whole one. Those big rubber worms are working out well though too.

Drifting slowly, bumping your bait along the bottom, is another way to locate bass, walleyes, and other species when they're lying deep. When you've hit, anchor and try that spot for a while. Often though, you'll find that only by working back and drifting that area again will you get another bite.

The hideouts of trout are most obvious when streams are at their summer lows, but special stealth is needed in approaching the deep holes. If a likely looking spot doesn't produce, chances are there's an old cannibal trout lying there. Try soaking a chub tail in there some night. Give it time. Many an old brown, rainbow, and even brook trout has fallen for that simple strategem.

Feeding Sprees

Always unpredictable, muskies may go on feeding sprees at any time. After cleaning your catch from the early hours, take a siesta. Then, if there are muskie waters near, spend the late afternoon or early evening hours working along the bars and weed bed for the big ones. It's paid off for many an angler in August.

So enough of those dog day alibis. The only fish with sore mouths these days are the big ones which get away.

Ditka, Ballman Add New Punch

Improved Passing Attack Spurs Eagles

By JACK HAND

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — "We'll be in the middle of it all," Joe Kuharich said.

"I don't feel we have to take a back seat to anybody in our division. I suppose everybody will be picking Dallas but we have beaten them four out of six in the last three years." It will be a real tough horse race."

Kuharich was talking it up about his Philadelphia Eagles. He gives the impression that the current Eagles are the best team he has had since he took over.

"Everybody laughed when I said we had three quarterbacks last year," he said. "But we traded one (Jack Concannon) and they tell me he is going to be No. 1 at Chicago. I think both Norm Snead and King Hill are qualified to do the job. I know they booed Norm last year but he just lets those boos roll off his back."

While Snead is away doing two weeks duty in the Army, Hill is getting his chance to handle the job in the first exhibition games.

Disturbed by the Eagles' poor passing attack last year when they ranked 14th in a 15-team league (only Chicago was worse) Kuharich has made some big deals for receivers.

Mike Ditka, an all-league tight end with the Chicago Bears for years until he suffered a foot injury in 1965, is now an Eagle. Ditka underwent surgery for removal of a calcium deposit from his right foot in April, is working into shape and appears to be a happy man in new surroundings.

Gary Ballman is the other big plus. The fine flanker from the Pittsburgh Steelers figures to make the Eagles a potent air threat — if Snead or Hill can get the ball to him. Ray Poage, Fred Hill and Ben Hawkins are the other receivers.

The Eagles will perform in the Capitol Division of the National Football League this year with Dallas, Washington and New Orleans. After finishing in a second-place tie last year, they think they can go all the way.

Jones Top Rookie

Kuharich expects to go to the air more often this year but is not neglecting his running game which again will be built around Timmy Brown and fullbacks Izzy Lang and Tom Woodeshick.

Harry Wilson, a rookie fullback from Nebraska, has been impressive. The Eagles' No. 1 draftee, Harry Jones of Arkansas was with the College All-Stars until last weekend. Dan Berry of California, also is getting a good look.

"Timmy, Tom, Izzy and Ollie (Matson) carried the load last year," said Joe. "We hope to give them some help this season."

There is a hole at left guard, vacated by the retirement of Ed. Blaine. Lynn Hoyem is getting a shot at it but a trade may be necessary. Jim Skaggs is the other guard. Bob Brown, the jumbo-sized tackle hailed as football's best blocker, anchors the offensive line. Lane Howell plays the other side and the veteran Jim Ringo is back for a 15th year at center.

Porous Defense

The Eagles' defense accounted for six touchdowns with interceptions and fumble recoveries last year but proved porous on pass defense. Don Hultz and Gary Peters provide the big pass rush up front, helped by Gary Pettigrew and John Meyers. Kuharich is satisfied with his linebacking trio of Mike Morgan, Dave Lloyd and Harold Wells, backed by Fred Brown and Arunas Vasys.

Corner men Jim Nettles, Hal Nelson, Ron Medved and Aaron Martin and safeties Nate Ramsey, Joe Scrapati and Bob Shann are the deep men. Six will stay.

Sam Baker, the 35-year-old veteran of 13 pro seasons, had his best field goal year in 1966. He'll be back to handle the placements and punting with an assist from Hill.

Cage Recruiting Violations

SEC Places Maroons On 2-Year Probation

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — The Mississippi State University basketball team was placed on a two-year probation Monday by the Southeastern Conference which found the school guilty of recruiting violations.

Under the probation, the Maroons will be ineligible for the SEC championship during the next two seasons and will be barred from taking part in any playoff or postseason tournament.

The SEC executive committee issued a statement after a meeting here. The committee found "there was gross negligence and laxity on the part" of Head Coach Joe Dan Gold and assistant Jack Berkshire.

Gold, reached at his home in Starkville, Miss., said he was aware of the investigation "but I haven't talked to anyone in Gatlinburg and I'm not really sure what was involved."

Mississippi State President W.L. Giles declined comment on the probation. Athletic Director Charlie Shira was en route from Gatlinburg to Starkville and was not available for comment.

Three Provisions

The committee said Mississippi State violated three SEC recruiting provisions between May and August, 1966, in dealing with two prospective athletes, Robert J. Black of Corning, Ark., and Allan Pruett of Rector, Ark.

Both youths later signed with the Maroons.

The first violation occurred May 7, 1966. The committee found that Black and Pruett took part in a practice session at Mississippi State Gymnasium with Maroon coaches present.

The second violation charged that the university failed to spell out terms of a grant-in-aid offered Black. By-laws of the SEC require such contracts spell out the "amount, duration, conditions and terms" of the award.

The third violation occurred Aug. 5, 1966, when Mississippi State furnished transportation for Pruett and Black to fly from Columbus, Miss., to Little Rock, Ark., to practice for an all-star game, the committee said.

SEC rules prohibit schools from conducting any practice session for athletes to show their abilities, and allow a college to pay only round-trip transportation costs between the student's home and the campus.

Bubba Smith Charged in Federal Court

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Washington, D.C., firm specializing in managing finances for celebrities has charged in federal court that Bubba Smith did not pay a commission on an estimated $200,000 he received for signing with the Baltimore Colts.

The firm, Celebrities Investment Management Co., alleged in U.S. District Court Monday that Smith violated provisions of a three-year contract.

Smith was given 20 days to show cause why a $20,000 lien against his assets should not be granted by a federal judge.

Testimony from Joseph Tubiolo said Smith, a 6-foot-7½, 260-pound tackle who played at Michigan State, agreed to make the firm his sole agent for negotiations for 10 per cent.

Jets Discipline Joe Namath for Recent Escapade

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — New York Jets Coach and General Manager Weeb Ewbank said "action has been taken," in the Joe Namath case Monday, but declined to elaborate.

Namath, the club's $400,000 bonus quarterback, left the club's training camp late Thursday night and was seen in New York early Friday morning, the day the team had an exhibition game with Boston.

Namath told Ewbank at the time he left the Jets' camp because of personal matters requiring his attention.

"Action has been taken," Ewbank said. "In line with general club policy we have nothing further to say. The incident is closed."

Candy Neuman Wins Event

Appleton YMCA Girls' Swim Team Second in AAU Meet

Candy Neuman captured first place in the 100-meter breast stroke, added a fourth in the 200-meter individual medley, and swam legs on three relay teams to lead the Appleton YMCA girls' swimming team to second place in the Wisconsin AAU Swimming and Diving Championships at Milwaukee over the weekend.

Appleton scored 92 points to finish runner-up to the Menomonee Falls Swim Club, which totaled 135. Waukesha was third with 84. Next came Whitefish Bay, Madison, Milwaukee Jewish Community Center and Greenfield.

Miss Neuman was the only Appleton entrant to get a first, when she swam the 100 meters in 1:31.8. Betsy Bates posted a second in diving off the high board, and Leslie Swalby took a runner-up in the low board diving competition.

Other high individual places by Appleton entrants included a third in high board diving, a fourth in the 200-meter breaststroke, and a fifth in the 100-meter breaststroke all by Leslie Swalby; and a fifth by Jeanne Patterson in the 200-meter individual medley.

Candy Neuman, Jeanne Patterson, Chris Patterson and Germaine Herrbold teamed up to garner a second in the 400-meter freestyle relay, plus a third in the 800-meter freestyle relay. The combination of Chris Patterson, Leslie Swalby, Candy Neuman and Germaine Herrbold picked up a third in the 400-meter medley relay.

Must Learn to Walk Again

Injured Hydroplane Driver Vows Return

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — Doctors say he'll first have to learn to walk again, but Owensboro's Bill Sterett declares he'll be racing hydroplanes within a year.

The winner of the World Hydroplane Unlimited Championship last June in Detroit was sidelined July 27 after suffering a serious hip injury while testing a new seven-liter craft at Guntersville, Ala.

The accident separated his right leg from the pelvic area by three inches.

He will be on a hammock-type support for at least five weeks, flat on his back, and then he must go through tedious rehabilitation.

Sterett never lost consciousness during the accident and still recalls vividly the mishap which took him out of action.

"I started the boat out at about 110 miles per hour the first time and increased the speed about 10 m.p.h. each trip around the Guntersville course.

After four trips around the course, he decided to try for 150 m.p.h. "The boat was going so good," he recalled. "I just couldn't help myself."

"On my fifth time around I looked down and noticed my speedometer read more than 150." Then it happened.

"The nose of the boat then raised six inches and seemed to hang suspended above the water.

"Then, without any warning, the boat just seemed to take off, just like an airplane."

Witnesses said the craft spun vertically about 50 feet into the air before breaking into three sections upon hitting the surface again.

Would he retire from boat racing?

Sterett, 42, looked at the lead weights hanging over his feet.

"Never!"

giving the pitchers more than enough support at the plate as they have hit .323 on 50-for-155 while 16 etxra base hits and have averaged almost eight runs a game during the streak.

In the opening game, Decatur got six men on base on three hits, two walks and an error but Appleton erased three of them on double-plays and only one of the other three got as far as second.

Cooper gave up a single to Don Hahn leading off the game, then the pitcher, Mike Wysocki beat out a scratch hit along the third base line in the third Dick White got the final hit in the fourth.

The shutout was Cooper's third of the season as he upped his season record to 8-2, the besy percentage of any Foxes' hurler. The North Carolina native now has won five in a row.

Steals Second

The Foxes staked Copper to a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Jose Ortiz beat out an infield hit, stole second, went to third on "Deacon" Jones' single and scored on George Hunter's sacrifice fly.

Appleton increased its lead in the second when Joe Monty, celebrating his 21st birthday, cracked a home run over the left field fence after two were out.

The Foxes did their final damage after two were gone in the fifth. Cooper, who has only five hits to his credit all year, hit a 1-0 pitch 350 feet over the left field fence. Ortiz went all the way to second when Dick White misjudged his fly ball and after Jeff Kolb had walked, Karl Simon hit a blooper over the first baseman's head into right to plate Ortiz.

Kokor, a 6-3, 183-pounder hailing from Cucamonga, Calif., completed his third game in 11 starts and brought his record to 5-4, snapping a 2-game losing streak.

The Foxes built a 4-0 cushion for him in the first inning. Kolb started the action with a 1-out single. Jones singled him to third on a hit and run play and George Hunter squeezed him in. Art Kusnyer was hit to load the bases and Roy Radmaker delivered a sacrifice fly Chuck Brinkman then cracked a 2-run double to the left field fence.

Appleton tallied twice in the third. Kolb opened with a broken-bat infield hit and Jones followed with a double down the left field line. Kolb was thrown out at the plate on Hunter's grounder but Jones scored on Kusnyer's ground-out. Hunter came home with the second run on a wild pitch.

The Commodores tallied their only marker of the night in the fourth on Fenwick's and Minton White's hits and an Appleton error.

The Foxes concluded the scoring in the fifth. Bob Mewes and Kolb led off with back-to-back singles and scored on a series of three Decatur miscues. Simon then walked, went to third on Hunter's liner to right and raced home on a wild pitch.The hit by Mewes ended his 0-for-12 slump and the one by Kolb was his third of the game.

Taking advantage of almost every situation offered them, Appleton left only one man stranded in the second game

Total of Five

Appleton continued its barrage of twin killings with two more in the nightcap for a total of five in the doubelheader.

The first game, which lasted only 1:17 was the Foxes' shortest contest of the year.

The doubleheader sweep was the Foxes' first of the second half and fifth of the year in 14 twin bills.

Appleton now owns a 12-7 record at home while it is 14-7 on the road in the second half.

Boxer's Wife Loses Decision As Aftermath of Hubby's KO

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Wayne Heath lost a $100 decision Monday as an aftermath of her heavyweight husband's knockout defeat in the boxing ring.

The 28 - year - old brunet was fined in Municipal Court after she pleaded guilty to interfering with a police officer during the performance of his duties

Last Wednesday, boxer Heath was floored twice by Buster Mathis at the Sports Arena and referee George Latka stopped the bout in the fifth round

Mrs Heath thought the action premature, hurled a ring stool and tore the shirt of officer Warren Pickens as she was forcibly removed from the scene.

"I've never seen Wayne beaten before, never seen him knocked out, knocked down or even hurt," said Frances Selma Heath who works in the medical research department of a nearby Duarte hospital.

"I couldn't believe he would be hurt It just didn't look fair. But Wayne told me afterward that I was wrong. He was injured by a punch to the liver. The referee was right to stop it."

Married to the boxer for 3½ years, Mrs. Heath was given a choice of 20 days in jail or $100 fine and decided to pay.

LBJ to Move 'After Election'

Senator Predicts Tax Increase Twice as High

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen George D. Aiken says he has been told President Johnson's war-related tax increase proposal "isn't half of what they will need. They are going to try to put off asking for the rest of it until after the election" next year.

The Vermont Republican said in an interview if the administration doesn't "listen to reason pretty soon" on Vietnam, "it will have written one of the worst chapters in American history or, indeed, in world history."

Aiken said his constituents are protesting the 10 per cent surtax on income taxes asked by Johnson Thursday to help finance mounting war costs.

Persistent Critic

The senator, second-ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a persistent war policy critic, said he had been "reliably informed" that the requested tax hike was less than half of what is needed

He said he agrees with the assessment Monday by Democratic leader Mike Mansfield that the administration is planning a further escalation of the war.

"The only solution they have to offer," said Aiken, "seems to be a bigger failure because the failures we have had aren't big enough"

He said one failure was the recent visit to Vietnam of Gen. Maxwell D Taylor and Clark Clifford as emissaries of Johnson

"That was a complete farce," he declared "They announced before they went that they were going out there to enlist more support from our allies

"But, before they arrived, our allies had a meeting and decided they weren't going to give us any more troops.

"So now they come back and say that wasn't what they went for at all."

Mansfield told the Senate Monday it appeared there was going to be a further escalation of the fighting "with the costs in lives adn money being borne preponderately by us"

He said many things pointed to a longer war and less pointed to peace, including Johnson's decision to send 45,000 more men and the battleship New Jersey to the combat zone and what he described as apparently unsuccessful efforts to persuade U.S. allies to contribute more troops

Three Proposals

Mansfield declaring "the enemy can match and outmatch us on further escalation," called for U.S. initiative to put the war before the United Nations Security Council, a stop of the bombing of North Vietnam and construction of a defensive barrier between North and South Vietnam.

Aiken backed these suggestions.

Sen John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., told the Senate he hoped the President would try for a U.N. settlement.

Aiken said: "Everything the administration has done so far has been a failure. Any other policy would be an improvement except dropping the atomic bomb and that would be the biggest failure of all."

Ex-Yank Terry Decides to Quit Baseball at 31

One-Time Star in World Series Turns Attention to Golf

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — "I really thought I could make it, but when the Mets don't want you . . ."

So the baseball career of Ralph Terry, a 23-game winner and World Series star with the New York Yankees in 1962, ended, perhaps prematurely, at the age of 31.

"But when one door closes, sometimes another door opens," said the right-hander who won 107 major league games and two more in the Series Another door has opened for him.

The lanky native of Big Cabin, Okla., has made the unusual jump from major league ball player to golf pro at the new Roxiticus Golf Club in nearby Mendham, N J.

Terry teaches golf, sells its products and publicizes the club and on Aug. 28, he will be the host pro to a $10,000 pro-am event, "my first real money tournament"

"I was in a state of shock for a couple of weeks when the New York Mets let me go this spring because baseball was such a part of my life But I understood. They had to make room for some younger players.

Why Wait?

"I think I had a few years left in baseball, but what would it have proved hanging around. I'm 31 now. Why wait until I'm 35 or 40."

Golf isn't new to Terry, who won the baseball players tournament three times and finished second three times In fact, it was indirectly baseball that got him started thinking seriously about golf.

"I fractured a hip in the accident after the 1957 season and they had me in traction for a time. I couldn't run in spring training of 1958, so I started playing golf to get my legs in shape.

"I shoot par now on our par 70 course

"Going on the tour is something else. I've got to get my game ironed out before even thinking about it" home two Pittsburgh runs in the second inning and Al Luplow, who collected six hits for the day, singled home another in the eighth.

Ninth-Inning Rally

The Pirates used the ninth-inning rally to win the first game

Chuck Hartenstein had held the Pirates at bay since taking over for Bob Shaw in the second inning, and the Cubs led 3-2 going into the ninth

The relief pitcher then started Chicago's downfall by committing a throwing error on Maury Wills' slow roller. Roberto Clemente tied the game by singling with men on first and second, and Manny Mota put the Pirates ahead with a sacrifice fly off Rob Gardner, who replaced Hartenstein.

Donn Clendenon clinched it with a two-run homer.

With the Cards-Dodgers game tied 3-3, two out and men on first and second in the ninth, Lou Johnson singled in one run. Another scored when centerfielder Curt Flood bobbled the ball, and Hunt raced home when second baseman Phil Gagliano threw the relay past third

Shannon Doubled

The Cardinals, who were on a five-game winning streak, tied it in the eighth when Mike Shannon doubled home Orlando Cepeda, who had singled. Los Angeles had taken a 3-2 lead with two runs in the sixth on a sacrifice fly and Lou Johnson's steal of home.

Rich Allen's two-run homer in the Philadelphia first inning, giving him 11 RBI in his last five games, was all the hitting help Jim Bunning needed in recording the 36th shutout of his major league career.

The veteran right-hander allowed San Francisco just four hits while ending the Giants' winning streak at six games.

The Phillies iced the game with five runs in the fourth inning.

Finley Pleased With His Visit To Seattle

Not Interested In Milwaukee, Oakland Competitive

SEATTLE (AP) — Kansas City Athletics' owner Charles O Finley met with Gov Dan Evans and Seattle Mayor J D Braman Monday and said he "was more than pleased with the attitude of city and county officials."

Finley said if a decision is made to move his American League baseball franchise, an announcement will be made around Oct. 1 after a meeting of other league owners The move requires the approval of seven of 10 owners

Evans and Braman last week asked Finley to consider moving the A's here.

The league's last-place team has also received feelers from Oakland and Milwaukee, and has been urged to remain in Kansas City by local groups there

Finley said Seattle is not in a "competition area" as is Oakland, across the bay from the San Francisco Giants. He also said the club is not interested in Milwaukee.

In Kansas City, two marketing consultants Monday began a survey of the city's strength compared to Seattle and Oakland as a major league market.

After touring the 12,000-seat Sick's Stadium, used for Pacific Coast League games, Finley said it could be remodeled to a 25,000-seat capacity pending the construction of a larger stadium.

Finley said, "If I pick Seattle, we have agreed to a formula for renovating Sick's Stadium as an interim ballpark which would be workable for both parties"

Evans, after meeting with Finley Monday in Olympia, Wash., said "There is every opportunity for the club to move by the 1968 season."

The governor indicated the bid's success hinges on the outcome of state, county and city efforts to provide a stadium.

Evans said a stadium committee formed by the last state legislature would decide after Sept. 8 where to locate a new facility and whether to place a bond issue on the ballot to finance it.

A bond proposal for a multipurpose stadium in King County, encompassing greater Seattle, received a majority of votes in a September, 1966 election, but not the necessary 60 per cent approval.

Anti-Castro Counterfeit Ring Broken

Counterrevolutionary Movement Allegedly Printed $1 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Six Cubans and a Puerto Rican have been indicted by a federal grand jury in connection with a $1 million counterfeiting ring ostensibly raising funds for anti Castro activities

Those indicted Monday included Jesus Gonzalez Carta, 44 a member of the Cuban Congress during the Batista regime and Sererino Perez Carril 45 former manager of the bankrupt periodical El Mundo Americano published here

Sergio Castro, 46 no relation to Prime Minister Fidel Castro, was said to have been the group's ringleader Officials said he fled Cuba after leading a band of rebels against Castro

The other defendants are German Castanera 40 of Bergenfield N J , who was born in Puerto Rico, Alberto Cepero, 35, Mrs Tamara Pinto, 26, and Nelson Sigler Oropesa, 26, also known as Charlie Cuba

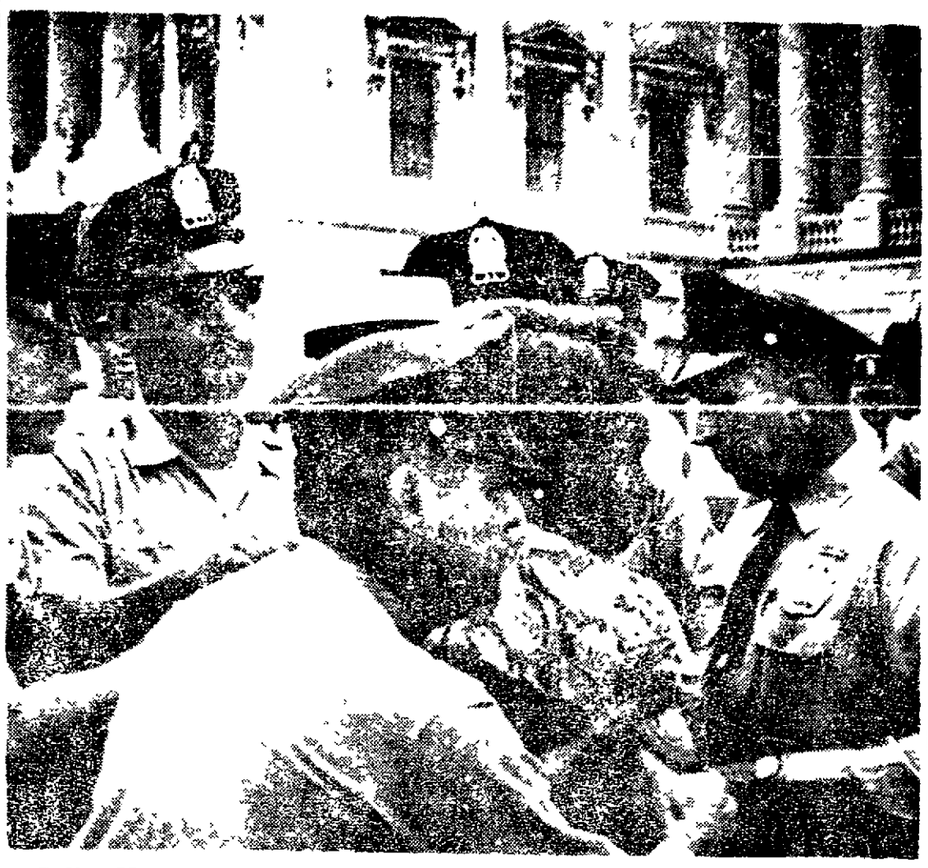

Approached Printer

Asst U S Atty J Edward Meyer III said Carta, Carril and Castro approached Castanera, an experienced printer, early last year and asked him to make counterfeit notes to raise money for a counterrevolution in Cuba

Meyer said Castanera delivered the $100, $50 and $20 bills—made by photo-offset—in lots of $100,000 and they were stored in various apartments

The fake money first turned up in Baltimore during the World Series last October and subsequently in Miami and New York, he said

Some $427,000 of the counterfeit bills were seized in two apartments last March, the prosecutor said He said some of the money was sold at 8 to 12 per cent of its face value

Negroes Enter Lower House, Protest Defeat of 'Rat' Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid screams, curses and flying fists a group from New York's Harlem, invading the House galleries to protest noisily for a federal rat control proposal clashed with Capitol police

At least six persons were injured in the disturbance Monday, which erupted shortly after the House adjourned a routine session

The group entered the public galleries and—as a few remaining House members fled the floor—began shouting protests against House action last month in killing the administration's antirat bill

But police stepped in quickly and broke up the chanting, clapping demonstration by the predominantly Negro group and those arrested, said after posting bond that the group came here to "demand passage of the rat bill but in turn our heads were beaten in and we were run out of Congress"

Most of the demonstrators returned to their New York homes by special bus but a delegation was left behind to pursue the rat bill situation

The House after a raucous debate that found many members cracking jokes about the measure, refused to consider the rat bill, which would have supplied $40 million over two years It may come up later, possibly as part of a housing package now under review in the Senate

Eight of the estimated 95 demonstrators were arrested charged with disorderly conduct and released after posting $10 bond

'Don't Need Riot Bill'

"Rats cause riots," the group chanted while sitting in the gallery "We don't need a riot bill We need a rat bill"

Police said one demonstrator carried a large rat in a cage Jesse Gray, Harlem rent strike leader who was among

WASHINGTON — What nearly everyone said couldn't happen here happened Monday A near riot took place under the dome of the Capitol of the United States

It all started just minutes after the house had adjourned Half an hour later one Capitol policeman was hospitalized, several were treated for minor injuries and six Negro men and two Negro women were arrested

The chamber of the House of Representatives was barely empty of congressmen and pages when between 75 and 100 Negro men and women stormed into a gallery, knocking down the doorman

Carrying placards reading 'Rats Make Riots," the group starting swinging the placards and chanting under the direction of a group leader, "Rats make riots "

About the only ones who witnessed the demonstration was a scattering of reporters in the nearby gallery

One of the leaders of the group, who later was arrested was Jesse Gray, who led a 1963 Harlem rent strike and in 1964 threatened to tie up the opening of the New York World Fair with a massive stall-in

Two years ago Gray founded a group known as the Organization for Black Power

Screaming, Hollering

As Gray was taken out of the gallery, the group ran out screaming and hollering I left the press gallery to see what was happening

I was stopped by a plain clothesman from the metropolitan police force who told me women were not allowed in the area I argued that I was a reporter and was not afraid of the Negroes but he remained firm and I turned around and returned to the gallery, muttering to myself about discrimination of women

I went back into the gallery in time to see a Negro woman in a white-green flowered dress lean over the railing and yell at no one in particular, 'You sob you ought to bring that damn Johnson here"

Male reporters allowed to go where the action was came back with a story of policemen being attacked by women as well as men One policeman was bitten in the elbow,

Thieu Says Extra Force Not Enough

Allied Win Predicted By Defector

SAIGON (AP) — A Communist defector introduced by the South Vietnamese government as a lieutenant colonel said today the allies will win the war, perhaps in two or three years

"The last victory will belong to the government and the allies," Huynh Cu told a news conference

Though intelligence estimates of enemy strength within South Vietnam have remained for

weeks at about 296 000, Cu said it is difficult these days for the Viet Cong to recruit new men

Speaking through a Vietnamese army English-language interpreter, Cu said one district he was familiar with in the northern province of Quang Ngai had a quota of 100 recruits in the first three months of this year, but only three were found

Dislikes Communists

"Most of the young men had left the district," he said "The rest did not like the Communists, or they said they were sick and in bad physical condition"

Cu, 39, was said to have commanded every size Viet Cong unit from squad to battalion. He said he has been a Communist since 1946 and fought the French with the Viet Minh

Born in Quang Ngai Province, he returned from the north in 1963 He said his duties, writing tactical manuals, training, kept him in the mountains of the northern sector He had made only two trips to the coastal plain and on the second, in March, he turned himself over to government troops along with his wife and adopted son

Asked to compare the troops he fought against, Cu said the Americans have tremendous firepower

"The soldiers have harmony with their airplanes" he said 'They have favorable conditions to fight"

Heavy Casualties

Remembering a regiment-size Viet Cong ambush, Cu said The Americans were calm They attacked our strong side and inflicted heavy casualties'

However Cu said, the American soldier is slow on his feet not because of his big pack but because he is so big himself

Cu said the South Korean troops are perhaps the toughest He recalled a Viet Cong attack against a Korean company in which 200 Viet Cong were killed

"They were brave and experienced in hand to hand combat They were good shots," he said

City Has Choice

Girlie Show or Taxes

GREENUP, Ky (AP)—A group of citizens protesting a bump-and-grind show at the annual county fair have been warned of an imminent tax hike if the hootchy-kootchy is canceled in 1967

The City Council met Monday and left it up to the volunteer fire department whether to keep the show The department runs the fair each year

But a council spokesman said the firemen would lose about $1 200 if it cancels the girlie show—by far the fair's most popular event

The $1 200 buys firefighting equipment each year, he said, and a tax would have to be substituted for the profitable dance

Claims More Troops Could Shorten War

SAIGON (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu said today more allied soldiers are needed in South Vietnam to win the war He indicated he believes the 45,000 to 50.000 additional U S troops President Johnson intends to send by next June 30 will not be enough

"We have to accept that," Thieu said "But if we have more it's better

"We still need more troops We have not enough troops to clear all the Viet Cong bases at the same time to occupy the whole (South Vietnamese) territory and to stay long enough with the people in the villages to provide them with enough security to support our pacification program

"If we have more troops we can shorten the war"

Afield, U S Green Beret Special Forces men and South Vietnamese irregulars believed outnumbered 4 to 1 counted 116 enemy dead after repelling a North Vietnamese mortar and ground attack on their camp near the Cambodian border

Casualties among the 500 defenders and their families at Tong Le Chou were termed moderate, meaning they were hit hard It was not known if any of the dozen or so American advisers were casualties

A South Vietnamese spokesman said the 165th North Vietnamese Regiment, believed to number some 2,000 men, attacked the camp 54 miles northwest of Saigon early Monday and fighting raged for many hours

Capture Weapons

The South Vietnamese reported they captured 35 hand weapons, three 50-caliber machine guns and one heavy machine gun

In the air war, 167 missions were flown against North Vietnam Monday, including an attack on the repeatedly hit Loi Dong storage area four miles northwest of the port of Haiphong But bad weather limited most of the attacks to the southern Panhandle

Another F4C Phantom jet was brought down by ground fire in the Panhandle, and both crewmen were missing. It was the 638th U.S combat plane reported lost over North Vietnam and the 38th in the past month

Heavy automatic weapons fire by the Viet Cong brought down five helicopters near Saigon

More Detroit Arrests Due

Policemen Plead Innocent To Two Charges of Murder

DETROIT (AP) — Officials say more arrests are likely in the case of two white Detroit policemen charged with murdering two Negro teen-agers in a motel at the peak of the city's riot

Prosecutor William Cahalan of Wayne County said he expects more warrants to be issued in connection with the shotgun killings, "but not murder warrants" He indicated conspiracy charges might be filed against some of those present when the shootings occurred

The patrolmen, Ronald August, 28, and Robert Paille, 32, pleaded innocent at their arraignments Monday They were jailed without bond

Morning Raid

A number of witnesses have said the youths were slain during an early morning raid by police and National Guardsmen searching for snipers at the Algiers Motel in midtown Detroit on July 26, three days after rioting began

A third Negro, Carl Cooper, 17, also was found killed by blasts from a 12-gauge shotgun in the motel

But Cahalan said he lacked evidence on claims that Cooper may have been shot by a uniformed man

Cahalan said he recommended the warrants against August and Paille as the result of statements from 80 persons and a 30-page report compiled by an 18-man Detroit police homicide bureau team.

Cahalan refused to reveal what the statements or the report said.

Results of the investigation have been turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation "for consideration of possible violation of federal law," Cahalan said

Pollard, Temple and Cooper originally were listed in police reports as suspected snipers "killed in exchange of gunfire."

A number of persons who said they were in the motel on the night of the shootings claimed they were lined up against a wall, beaten with gun butts and threatened with death by the raiding officers

Fuel Blast Rips City In Louisiana

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — A powerful explosion erupted at the Cities Service Co. refinery here early today shattering plate glass windows in surrounding business districts and injuring 10 persons Four workmen were reported missing.

Flames covered a block area at the sprawling complex on the West Bank of the Calcasieu River in extreme southwestern Louisiana

The injured were taken to two hospitals Five were later released Only one of those remaining was listed in serious condition

Intense heat kept firefighters from entering the area which was roped off for fear of secondary explosions

Word From the Top

Milwaukee Police Blamed for Rising Tensions, Now Praised

MILWAUKEE (AP) — 'Be sure of your targets Be sure of your targets," the police radio warned July 31 as police began moving against suspected snipers in the racially troubled inner core

A policeman sat in his squad car and heard a fellow officer radio back that he was about to rush a house that possibly was a hiding place for a rifleman

'All that fire power available, and they're going to rush the place," the policeman said in disgust

The word had obviously come from the top—beware of harming the innocent, avoid the incident that could make a harrowing situation even worse

Until the fatal shooting of a suspected firebomber Wednesday night, police had largely avoided the incident that could make passions even hotter

Reporters who had seen police crack in similar circumstances in Newark and Detroit marveled at the discipline of Milwaukee's force

Before violence erupted, police were pegged as the villain of the deteriorating Milwaukee racial scene

An Associated Press spot check of opinion in core taverns last spring showed deep hostility toward the police

Negroes assailed policemen for addressing them as "boy" or "hey you" and recounted incident after incident in which police misunderstanding added to an already unbearable load of bitterness

"They ain't got much smarts," said a man with a master's degree, who told of being stopped by police just for driving in a white neighborhood at night

Another man told of two people he knew who got stopped at different times for driving without their license in their possession One man, who was white, was sent home, he said The other man, who was a Negro, was jailed

Predictions were general that if a riot did come, it would be caused by a police incident

But there was no police incident that triggered the July 30 riot

And some observers believe it was restrained police force that brought the riot under control so soon

It was also the police that kept armed whites from moving into the Negro areas during the height of the crisis

Milwaukee has 1,900 policemen After one night's riot one of them was dead, found in the ruins of a burned house

Patrolman John Carter, 25, was blind in one eye and in danger of losing his sight in the other Carter had rushed the house.

"If I thought losing both my eyes would solve Milwaukee's problems, I would be pleased," he said "But losing my eyes isn't going to solve anything"

Carter, who became a policeman because of "just wanting to help people," added a thought about the role of police "Police departments are looked at as causing our problems, problems in housing, problems in schools When things happen, when riots start, people are naturally going to take it out on the police He's the first one on the scene"

An east side service station owner took note of a march protesting the fatal shooting of the Negro youth

"What about the dead cop?" he asked. "Who's protesting what happened to him?"

HUD Ruling Appeal Likely On Water Grant

Appleton May Request Review Of Funds Petition

There was growing indication Monday the City of Appleton will file a request with the regional office of the Housing and Urban Development Department (HUD) for a review of its $1.5 million water grant denial.

The federal agency rejected Appleton's application last Friday, basing its reasons on the contents of what officials claim is "an outdated and outmoded 1960 report."

City officials were awaiting the return of Mayor George Buckley from an extended weekend vacation from Friday through .oday.

In the meantime, Eighth District Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay) called City Atty. David Geenen this morning when informed the mayor was not in and recommended the city make an immediate appeal of the regional HUD determination.

Byrnes told Geenen it was apparent HUD overlooked current data submitted it by the city and its water consultants, and that this should be pointed out to regional officials immediately.

Byrnes told Geenen . the factual determinations on the project are made on the regional HUD level, while overall policy comes from the main office in Washington.

Upon receiving the reasons for the grant rejection, city officials took strong issue with the regional HUD determination.

The HUD statement said a report (later discovered to be dated June, 1960) indicated the water treatment plant could meet local water demands for several years, and the city would have a 4 million gallon reserve.

It also said Appleton should get together with Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac on a Lake Winnebago water utility.

City officials pointed out this would "almost be an impossibility", citing that Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh already get water from Lake Winnebago and have extensive investments in their respective plants.

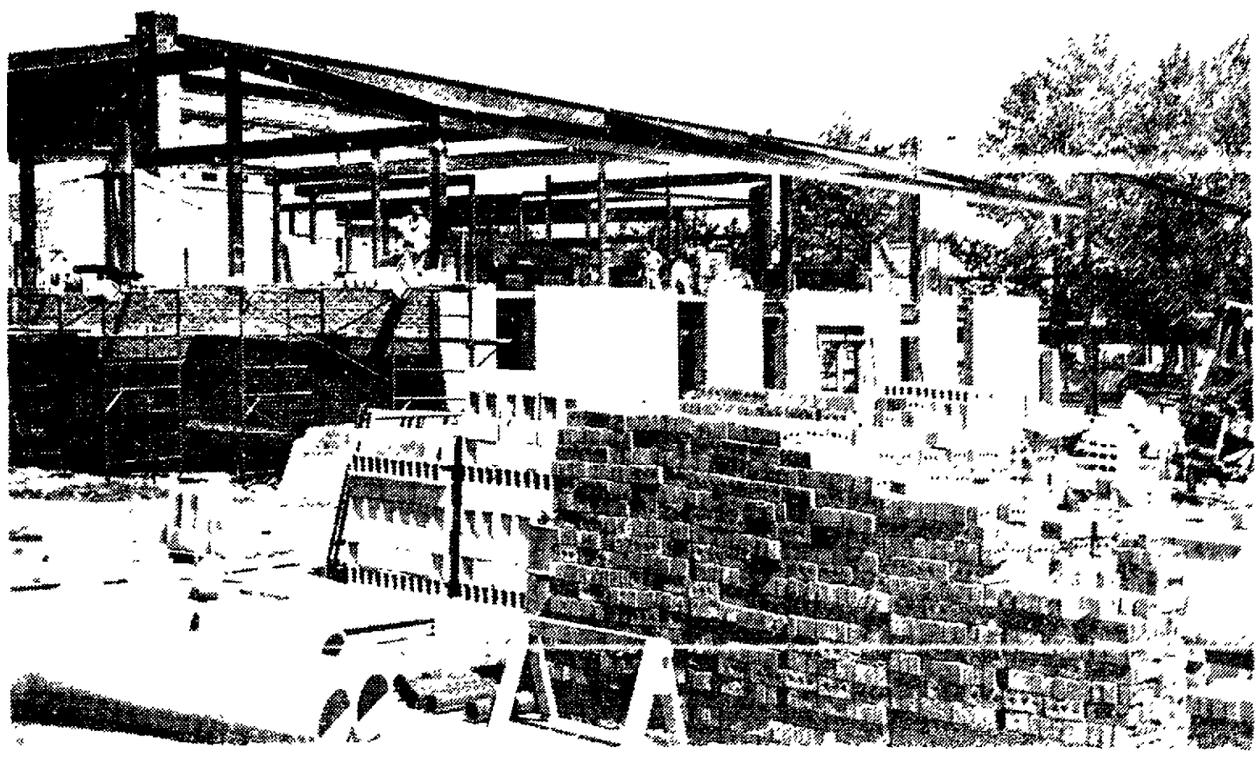

Geenen said he would relay the information from Byrnes' conversation to Buckley when he gets back.

In the meantime, Geenen said he would contact HUD officials at Chicago and indicate Appleton authorities are requesting an opportunity to "clear up any misunderstanding" with regard to a factual determination.

Mayor Buckley and other city officials also will consider the recommendation by a spokesman for U.S. Senator Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.), who said the mayor and other key figures in Appleton's water expansion project should make a trip to Washington without delay.

Nelson's office plans to arrange a meeting with the city representatives with the head of the water facilities division of HUD, who has jurisdiction over all regional offices in the country.

"It's time to go to the top to get to the bottom of this whole thing," is how the Nelson spokesman candidly put it.

Man's Fine Includes New Police Shirt

Payment of $6.20 for a new shirt and shoulder patch for an Appleton patrolman was among the court costs added to a $75 fine dealt a 27-year-old Appleton man who became involved in a scuffle with police in front of a tavern late Saturday night.

James A. Schadrie, 2418 N. Bay St., pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct when he was arraigned this morning in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Police said they were called to 1216 S. Oneida Street about 10 p.m. Saturday, where a man reportedly was causing trouble. Police told Schadrie at that time that he had a choice of leaving peacefully or going to jail.

The court was told this morning that they had Schadrie in the back seat of the squad car and were going to call a taxi cab to take him home when he suddenly became abusive and violent.

He ripped a patrolmen's shirt during the ensuing scuffle with three policemen.

Stockbridge Officials Issue Warning to Clear Areas

State Previously Ordered All Health Hazards Razed by July 15

STOCKBRIDGE — Offending property owners were given 15 days to remove "privies, junk, old buildings and weeds" by village officials Monday night. If not removed in the alloted time, the village will complete the task and charge the property owners.

The State Board of Health set July 15 as the deadline. Several letters have been written to some of the offenders by state and village officials, regarding removal of the health hazards.

The board ordered clerk George Ecker Jr., clerk, to advise Gilbert Hemauer, Kay Hostettler, the Methodist Church, Richard Hammer, Stockbridge Sherwood Telephone Co., Oddfellows Lodge, Town of Stockbridge, Frank Kraemer and Mrs. August Schmidt of the action.

Paul Westenberger, village president, also pointed out that the Stockbridge Sherwood Telephone Co. be advised to remove a delapidated garage and shed from the rear of the property on Main Street, cut the weeds from around the building and remove wire not being used. Hemauer will be asked to remove the junk from around his service station. All other property owners have privies.

Curb and Gutter Request

A petition with six signatures requesting curb and gutter and sidewalk east on County Trunk E in the village was presented to the board by Carl Marose. Measurements will be taken today to determine the amount of materials needed and bids will be sought in readiness for a public hearing which will be scheduled soon.

The board also discussed the necessity for hiring a man to take care of the work in connection with the village. Westenberger voiced his opinion saying it would be to the village's advantage, instead of hiring many firms to do odd jobs. He was backed up by several of the trustees.

Westenberger said he felt that the possibility should be investigated and funds set up in the next budget. Trustees also suggested including law enforcement with the new position. They delayed action on creating a curfew ordinance until the village has its own law enforcement officer.

Snow Removal

Plowing snow from the streets this winter also was discussed and trustee Emil Custer was ordered to investigate the situation.

Town of Stockbridge which has previously cut weeds in the village, has advised officials that it will no longer be able to carry out the work. This prompted the board to appoint Norbert Gilles Jr. to seek prices on a used mower which could be attached to a tractor belonging to one of the board members.

Matt Moehn Jr. asked if anything had been decided about the 100 feet of curbing installed along his property by Bloy Construction Co., which is lower than the road. The village has agreed to take out the curbing but it must be replaced by the contractor.

The board ruled that after waiting five months a 15 day limit would be set on the project. McMahon Engineering Co., Menasha, engineers for the project are to be notified, and if the work is not done another contractor will be hired for the $390 being withheld.

Fire Truck Costs

Bills totaling $1,291 for work on the fire truck were received, a portion of which will be paid by the Town of Stockbridge since it is a joint volunteer fire department.

A beer license was granted to the Brickyard Fishing Club for a picnic for the Labor Day holiday.

Bloodmobile Tops Quota at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The local chapter of the American Red Cross exceeded its quota by two pints of blood Monday afternoon when the bloodmobile was at the Veterans Memorial Building for its second visit this year.

Quota was 110 pints, according to Mrs. Keith Beggs, program chairman. There were 119 persons who volunteered to be donors with seven being rejected.

Alumni of the high school class of 1965, under the chairmanship of Robert Schmidt, had challenged the alumni of the class of 1966, headed by Fred Shaffer to see which could donate the most blood. The 1965 group won the competition with 12 donors against five for the 1966 group.

In March 109 pints were collected, one pint less than the quota; and last November when the quota was 107 pints, there were 117 pints collected.

At Monday's visit, five pints of A-negative blood were collected to be used for a patient today at Madison for open heart surgery.

New London Couple Fined $202 for Conduct

WAUPACA — Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Claassen, route 3, were fined a total of $202 Monday when they appeared in Municipal Justice Court where both pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct charges.

Claassen, 21, and his wife Jean, were arrested by Weyauwega Police at about 1:15 a.m. Sunday and were held in the Waupaca County jail until their court appearance Monday morning.

According to Weyauwega Police Chief Lawrence Schmies, the couple had been involved in an argument in the parking lot of a Weyauwega tavern when a car parked at the curb and the driver failed to turn off the car lights. Claassen using profane language told the driver to turn off his car lights and when he failed to do so, Claassen threw stones at the car, Schmies said.

When police arrived both Claassen and his wife used abusive profane language and Mrs. Claassen said if police took her husband to jail, she wanted to go too, so both were arrested.

Justice George Whalen fined Mrs. Claassen $25 but the court costs included 34 hours of matron duty for a police matron which along with her fine totaled $89. The couple along with the aid of relatives managed to pay Mrs. Claassen's fine and Claassen was given time to pay his fine and costs which totaled $113.

County to Consider Home for Juveniles

Public Welfare Committee to Report Recommendations for Proposed Receiving Center

Outagamie County Board members will have the opportunity today to take the first steps toward establishing a juvenile receiving home.

A report will be presented by the board of public welfare recommending the county rent a building near the courthouse for use as a temporary sheltered care facility.

The report was approved at an emergency session Friday.

Board members could move to suspend the rules of procedure and take action on the recommendation, which estimates that operating the home from Sept. 1 through Dec. 1 will cost about $4,500.

Normal Procedure

Normal procedure would be to present the recommendation in resolution form. However, procedure also requires that a resolution be in the hands of supervisors five days before the meeting.

Since the report was adopted Friday, the rules must be suspended if immediate action is to be taken. The board also could refer the report to a committee.

"Now we have all the facts," Alfred Eggert, director of public welfare, told The Post-Crescent Monday "I don't think the problem will be to get foster parents for the facility. The chief problem is getting a home."

Study Completed

Eggert completed a study Thursday night in which he spent evenings evaluating seven possible locations and interviewing two possible foster parents.

He indicated the $4,500 figure includes the salary of foster parents, room and board for children in the facility and building rental.

Possible federal and state aid in financing the program also is being investigated. The facility would be for juveniles who for various reasons temporarily cannot stay at their home and have nowhere else to go.

Supporters of establishing the facility indicated Monday they would try to have discussion on the report scheduled for 2 p.m. The meeting started at 9:30 a.m.

Scheduling discussion for the afternoon is often done with special orders of business, which occur when the rules are suspended.

Board Chairman Sylvester Elser (Appleton 18th) has indicated that he thinks a concrete proposal for a temporary sheltered care facility will pass the board.

"You come with the package and I don't think you'll have any trouble with the county board," he told a July meeting of officials and citizens interested in the problem.

Three resolutions will be presented to the board.

One recommends improvements costing $70,000 for the Outagamie County Airport, in line with new criteria of the Federal Aviation Agency and the State Aeronautics Commission.

Another proposes hiring a full-time process server for the county. The measure lists regulations for the post set up by the personnel committee of the executive committee which differ from those proposed by the law enforcement committee.

Board members also will consider a resolution by the health committee authorizing hiring of a full-time sanitarian or hydrologist to coordinate a county sanitation program.

Fair Displays Depict History Of Manufacturing

The story of Wisconsin's paper industry will be told at the conservation exhibit at State Fair, Aug. 11 through 20. As fairgoers stroll through the wooded, quarter-acre Conservation Department site they can view a series of "Paper Makes Wisconsin Great" displays.

Displays will include an intricate, animated model of a typical river basin. While lightning flashes, thunder peals, and rain falls, a dam and reservoir work to prevent flooding of a miniature, downstream city. The model was developed by the Wisconsin Valley Improvement Co.

A tent film, "The Story of Wisconsin Paper," will premiere at the Fair. The movie traces papermaking from its beginnings in China to today.

The Historical Society's Historymobile display, "Empire in Pine", will relate Wisconsin's past logging era. Three dimensional models, old photographs and logging equipment will bring back the days of logging camps and river runs.

Nelson Supports Benefits Increase

Senator Urges Social Security Hike in Speech Before Elderly

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Democratic Sen. Gaylord Nelson Saturday urged increased Social Security benefits for the nation's elderly and spreading the cost of the program equally among employers, employes and the government.

Wisconsin's junior Senator spoke in Green Bay to about 150 persons, most over retirement age, at the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena Saturday afternoon.

"I am prepared to fight" for President Johnson's recommendations that the Social Security minimum be raised from the present $44 a month to $70, Nelson stated.

"That's not an adequate raise, but it is a step forward," he told the senior citizens, meeting at the talk sponsored by United Auto Workers Locals in Green Bay and Appleton.

Will Ask Amendment

The Senator said when the bill reaches the Senate, he will sponsor an amendment to include periodic cost of living increases.

Nelson also described his efforts to slash drug prices. He said recent committee testimony revealed that one drug manufacturer sold a medicine to druggists at $17.90 for 100 tablets, while another firm sold the comparable item for 59 cents for 100.

Nelson presented statistics compiled by "The Medical Letter," a publication "held in high esteem" by the nation's doctors. The publication listed prices of a certain drug — of equal quality — ranging from the high of $17.90 to a low of 59 cents.

Nelson has been advocating, as chairman of the monopoly subcommittee of the Senate's small business committee, that doctors prescribe drugs by gen-

Rifle-Toting Man Jailed For Disorderly Conduct

A 32-year-old route 1, Kaukauna man whom police found sitting in a chair with a loaded rifle on his lap while they were investigating a "family fight" was sentenced to 30 days in jail this morning after he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct.

Outagamie County police arrested Robert E. Pittman at his home shortly before midnight Sunday, after they were called to investigate a disturbance at Skunk Hill Tavern at County Trunks C and S. Pittman's mother-in-law operates the tavern.

Police found that Pittman had ripped the telephone from the wall at the tavern after arguing with his wife and mother-in-law. A tavern patron had left the building to notify police.

Pittman had left the tavern in his wife's car before police arrived. Before leaving, he reportedly had said he was going home to get a rifle.

While one policeman remained at the tavern, two patrolmen went to the Pittman home, where they found the Pittman car in a ditch near the driveway.

Finding a door ajar, police entered and reportedly found Pittman seated, with a .22 caliber rifle in his lap. Police said there was one shell in the gun.

Pittman later told police, and repeated in county court this morning, that he did not remember having a gun in his hand. He said he had been drinking.

Family Left House

Police indicated that Mrs. Pittman and her eight children had left the house earlier in the day.

Mrs. Pittman told the court this morning that the family is afraid of her husband "when he's been drinking." The court was told that the eight children are Mrs. Pittman's by a previous marriage.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller told Pittman this morning, "You're lucky you're not here today on a first-degree murder charge." He suggested that Pittman "do some thinking" in jail.

Senator Urges Social Security Benefit Hike

eric names rather than brand names.

Returning to social security, Nelson said the United States is far behind some European countries in providing retirement benefits. Germany, he said, had a retirement system in operation in 1880, while the U.S. program began in 1935.

$82 Average

In June 1966, Nelson continued, the average single retired worker received Social Security of $82 a month, and the average retired couple, $144.

He called "the plight of the aged widow particularly shameful." The government in 1962 reported that 70 per cent of them were living in poverty and that in 1966, the average payment to the 2.5 million aged widows was $74 a month he said.

He said the only two increases in benefits—76 per cent in 1958 and seven per cent in 1965—failed to keep pace with rising prices caused by inflation. "Unduly low benefits deprived them of the chance to share in the nation's progress," he added.

The Senator said also he is in agreement with the proposal to raise the tax base on which payments into the program are made from the present $6,600 to $10,800 by 1974.

He said that the Social Security system has "helped lift the burden of old age welfare payments from state and local governments," he stated that since 1950, the percentage of elderly receiving such aid has dropped from 22 to 11.

Nelson advocated a plan in which employers, employes and the government would each contribute one-third of the program's cost. This he said, would relieve the employer and employe "of carrying the full burden" for those who receive benefits, but had contributed a minimum.

UAW Sponsored

Nelson's talk was sponsored by UAW Local 1102, Paper Converting Machine Co., Green Bay and Local 1335, Fox Tractor Co., Appleton.

In a letter to local presidents, GOP Congressman John W. Byrnes said, "I felt you might be interested in the cost and tax impact of the Social Security changes recommended by the UAW. . ." which are similar to the president's proposals.

Byrnes said the combined employer-employe tax rate for such increases would rise from 11 to 18 per cent, and that the dollar amount would increase from a present maximum of $746 to $2,592.

He also said the changes would cost the nation's treasury $24 billion by 1974.

Harvey Kitzman, UAW Region 10 Director, told the elderly at the arena, "We can spend billions on the war in Vietnam, but as soon as we propose raising the Social Security benefits higher than 70 cents a day, we have all sorts of questions asked."

Sirek was authorized to advertise for candidates for the positions and was directed to prepare a proposed organizational structure for the district.

Migrant Leader Files Complaints On Housing Study

WAUTOMA, Wis. (AP)— The head of a migrant workers' union Monday accused a state official of "inaction" in studying complaints about migratory workers housing in Waushara and Portage counties.

Jesus Salas, head of Obreros Unidos (United Workers) wrote a letter to Joseph C. Fagan, chairman of the state Department of Labor, Industry and Human Relations, charging that Fagan was either incapable of responding to housing needs or "guilty of a gross deception."

Fagan, who was not available for comment Monday, had promised two weeks ago that his department would "move heaven and earth" to end poor housing and sanitary conditions in the migrant camps.

Salas said "The situation has not improved; as a matter of fact, the conditions have worsened at many camps" since the promise was made.

Stiff Fines Dealt to Teens

Neenah-Menasha Youths Given Stern Warning in Court

Stiff fines and a warning to "stay in Neenah and Menasha," were dealt five teen-agers who were arrested about 3:45 a.m. Monday after they abandoned their car on W. Summer Street following a short chase by police.

Fined $100 and costs each, or 48 days in jail, after they pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct were Stephen J. Porter, 18, and Charles L. Zehner, 19, both of 2020 Marathon Ave., Neenah; Scott B. Westphal, 812 Broad St., Menasha; Ross A. Fischer, 18, who lives on Clovis Avenue in Menasha; and Jeffery G. Schmitz, 18, 1428 Lakeview Lane, Neenah.

Fischer also was fined $50 and costs or another 24 days in jail after he pleaded guilty of illegal possession of fireworks, and Zehner was fined $20 and costs or another 10 days after he pleaded guilty of driving an unregistered vehicle. All of the youths appeared together this morning in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Profane Comment

An Appleton patrolman said he attempted to stop Zehner's car in the 1000 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue about 3:15 a.m. today after he heard an occupant in the car shout a profane comment to a pedestrian. He also noticed that the car had no license plates.

However, the patrolman lost the car, and a short time later a woman notified police that a black car had just pulled into her driveway in the 1000 block of W. Summer Street. She said that several boys abandoned the vehicle. The youths were taken into custody a short time later by a patrolman and a detective. Taken to the police station, they reportedly refused to answer any questions.

While searching Fischer at the station, police found that he had firecrackers in his pockets.

The youths, who said they were "just riding around," were warned by County Judge Gustave J. Keller to "stay in Neenah and Menasha where you belong."

Let's Appeal the Water Decision

Undoubtedly one of the most disheartening, shallow and factually-lacking decisions by a federal agency is that of the Chicago regional office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) denying Appleton's longstanding request for an urgently needed $1.5 million grant to solve a critical water problem and ease the municipal burden of a $4.5 million outlay for a filtration plant addition and pipeline to Lake Winnebago.

Shocking were the irrational reasons for rejecting the fund application, and city officials and the Wisconsin Congressional delegation would be remiss if they did not seek an immediate review to appeal the decision. Obviously, the ruling and reasons for denial demonstrates a complete lack of awareness on the part of federal officials of what has transpired here for over a decade, although they were supplied with countless reports from city and Water Department officials, consulting firms, along with receiving updated briefings when requesting them.

It appears HUD devoted considerable time searching for an "out", reaching back to an outmoded, outdated report of June, 1960, and claiming . . . "The Appleton treatment plant appears to be adequate for the next several years with an additional reserve of 4 million gallons." HUD also claimed the project was not in conformance with areawide plans and programs, and then said in the future it would consider a Winnebago pipeline as a first step toward a coordinated water system for Appleton, Manitowoc, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah and Menasha.

For the record, and HUD officials were made aware of it, the technical committee of the Fox Valley Regional Plan Commission recommended that Appleton go to Winnebago after the city and state exhausted all efforts over a three-year period to get other Valley communities interested in a $34 million Lake Michigan cooperative pipeline.

It was also made clear that the treatment plant has been operating at capacity and critical levels since the early 1960's when stringent water use regulations affecting residents and industries have been necessary periodically.

And it is general knowledge that Neenah, Menasha and Oshkosh long have obtained water from Lake Winnebago. So, when HUD officials say they would like to be informed "of the progress made in the formation of a Water Utilities District and will be happy to participate whenever we are able" it would seem they are not in contact with reality and refuse to recognize the seriousness of the local problem and the time bind it presents.

Since 1964, between $75,000 and $100,000 has been spent by the city in obtaining three updated surveys, complete with recommendations, from two internationally recognized Chicago-based water consultants and engineering firms. It was recognized more than a year ago that Appleton could not "go it alone" to Lake Michigan because of a prohibitive $14 million cost, and consultants said Winnebago definitely was the alternate source for the next 20 years or so until Valley communities are ready to join in a Lake Michigan utility project.

The bitter fact of life is that while the city has acted in good faith and kept in constant touch with HUD over the past year, the Winnebago pipeline and plant addition cost has risen considerably. But more serious is that this growing community has to live in the shadow of an inadequate water source which can affect the health and welfare of its residents, along with making it difficult to service existing industries, not to mention the handicap in attracting new ones, or implementing the major planned annexation program.

Surely HUD officials should be aware of the overall problem but somehow they have failed to grasp it although the city has made a thorough documentation of its case and was led to believe the project held high priority and the final step was to make a funding reservation. When it comes to facts and acting in good faith, Appleton apparently was traveling a one-way street and HUD has yet to find it.

The Drug Traffic in Vietnam

Well documented articles since our involvement in Vietnam have shown black marketing, graft, and other forms of corruption. The latest scandal involves drugs.

Recent testimony before a Senate investigating committee showed that one Vietnamese importer collected illegal kickbacks of almost $900,000 from United States drug concerns. Some of the drugs have been found in use by the Viet Cong and some reportedly have filtered into Red China. One individual is said to have made $1.6 million from the illegal sale of American drugs financed through the Agency for International Development and intended for South Vietnam.

War being what it is with its waste, not only of human but material resources, there probably is no foolproof way to eliminate such graft. But the Congress should make certain that as many loopholes as possible are plugged in programs such as those involving foreign aid to reduce the ill-gotten gains of those who use war for their crooked dealings.

Plugging such loopholes, of course, must be preceded by a close watch on all of the government aid programs to insure that the aid is being used for what it is intended and that it is necessary in the first place. Graft and waste are bad enough at any time, and should be rooted out. This becomes even more important in the face of staggering deficits in meeting the cost of government at home along with our commitment to aid foreign countries.

Wisconsin as Host

The most casual observation of the variety of state auto license plates on any major Wisconsin highway during this summer season is a forceful reminder of the immense impact of the tourist trade on the Wisconsin economy and especially in those woodland and lake regions of upper Wisconsin which are less fortunately endowed with ordinary commercial and industrial activity.

Tens of thousands of visitors, most of them with vacation budgets reflecting the high level of employment and earnings throughout the country, probably represent the margin of required profit for thousands of our entrepreneurs, from service station proprietors to restaurant owners, from hotels and motels to gift shops, not to mention farm producers and food processors who get a perceptible lift from the hungry holiday guests of the state

There has been a good deal of discussion in Madison over the years about expanding tourist promotion efforts, and the direct appropriation for such luring of vacation visitors has been steadily and generously increased. But that is not the whole of the promotion effort. We have long felt that one of the most effective of our solicitations is implicit in the long-range effort to improve our roadsides for the protection of their scenic values.

The state highway commission, with the assistance of some new federal money, is now proceeding with a will to screen junk yards and the other most ugly sights of the windshield viewer that we have tolerated too long.

There appears to be more response in the legislature this year to the demand for billboard controls, although it is evidently not yet sufficient to bring about effective legislation.

The highway commission over many years has also shown a wise concern about providing roadside comforts for the traveler. Wisconsin residents included, in the way of resting sites, picnic grounds, scenic overlooks, historical markers, and others.

The department reports that there are now roadside facilities for the motoring traveler at 650 separate locations on the state trunk highway system, which is about one to each 17 miles There are waste receptacles, incinerators, and fire grills at many of the sites. More sites are being provided with water and toilet facilities.

All of these services contribute to the safety of travel on Wisconsin highways, as the highway department has reminded in a recent bulletin But they also represent the most effective welcome symbol to the thousands of annual or occasional vacation visitors We urge the commission to continue the roadside service and improvement program it launched more than 30 years ago, as a recognition that the road system can be a recreational resource as well as a transportation tool.

Bondage, Prosperity, Dependency

We Might Draw Some Lessons From History of Ancient Countries

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

ATHENS, Greece — The previous government's unlimited promises and unlimited spending, equivalent to President Johnson's Great Society, have been leading here to bankruptcy through bureaucracy.

What about Mr. Johnson's magic candy cane? Is the welfare state a feasible state or merely the state of mind of our Washington spenders? Moreover, few things could be more instructive to us at home than this very ancient city's ancient past.

Socrates warned as early as 363 B.C.: "The poorer citizens have captured the government and have voted the property of the other citizens into political hands for redistribution among themselves Politicians have strained their ingenuity to discover new sources of revenue in this circle of action."

What's new about President Johnson's candy cane?

At one period Athens never seemed so great, nor its future so secure. But, as so often happens, when an institution or great personality seems at its highest force, actually the process of irredeemable decay has already set in.

Taylor

In the best but brief days of Athens' democracy only about one in 10 persons had sufficient interest to vote. Finally, those eligible were paid to come to the market places, listen to the speeches, and vote.

The political spiders did the rest.

There were barbarians (as always) outside the walls.

Babylon and Egypt fell to the warlike Assyrians. Nineveh fell to the warlike Chaldeans, and the power of the Chaldeans fell before the growing might of the Persians. Then, with Athens as Persia's goal, the Persian wars continued, on and off, for hundreds of years.

When Alexander's homesick army refused to cross the Indus, this was the end of Alexander the Great and he died before he, too, could return home, age 33

The Spartan System

Within Greece itself, Croton was less wealthy than Athens but better organized for war So was Sparta. The aura of invincibility ultimately surrounded Sparta. In the Spartan constitution of Lycurgus the state was everything, the individual nothing. Orders were final. Questioning them was impossible Propaganda and education were synonymous.

Under her totalitarian system Sparta never needed more than 8,000 highly trained fighting men to threaten rich Athens and seldom committed that many to combat.

Athens died in an age of oratory. False promises, unobtainable promises, broken promises — these three things are the curse of men and nations. In the politicians' failure to defend sound principles the Athenians ceased to know what sound principles were.

License took the place of liberty, and there was a sick sentimentality that condoned criminality and even the lack of patriotism as society's fault and dismissed the individual from responsibility — an important false reading of human nature.

Athens should have learned from Crete, aswe should learn from this century's events involving England. The Athenians certainly had plenty of time.

Crete Before Athens

Crete flourished long before Athens' glory in the 5th Century B.C. The Greeks called it simply "The Great Island." Four thousand years of civilization overlay it. Zeushimself grew up in a Cretan cave on Mt. Ida. Legendary King Minos' errant wife fell in love with a bull and spawned the monster Minotaur. Minos had Daedalus build the labyrinth (you can see the ruins at Knossos) to imprison it.

It is, as well, a home of Apollo's beloved dolphin, the darling of the Aegean, the "desire of the sea." And you eat souvlaki, a pastry-lamb yogurt staple which both Homer and Aristotle recommended

After the Minoans, many aggressors overran the great island — the Arabs, Byzantine, Venetians, Romans and Turks left their trace

The Athenians knew all this and learned nothing.

History has nations come up from bondage to prosperity, then descend from prosperity to selfishness, selfishness to dependency, and dependency to fear

Many civilizations have collapsed because economic, military and social problems became so complex and burdensome that the spirit and will of the people were no longer sufficient to cope with them This is the enemy inside that can cost us our place as the world's No.1 power

Nothing happening here in Greece now is as important in our American lives as this parallel

Looking Backward

County Assessments a Mockery

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 10, 1867.

Some of the tax-payers of the County express surprise that we have not criticized the glaring inequalities of the recent County Equalization.

The fact is, we have regarded it almost as a waste of time to enter upon a crusade of any kind. In some towns the assessment was a mockery and a farce, and if equity was visited upon the Assessors, some of them would be put out to board with Jailer McGrath for six months at least

The County Board took but a slight step toward equalizing valuations equitably, and are entitled to no credit therefor If supervisors have not the courage to stand up against a local pressure to induce them to do wrong in a matter so apparent, surely it is time to organize Vigilance Committees and "try what virtues there are in stones."

Wisconsin Report

Money Requirements Imperil Integrity Of Election System

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — After years of demonstrating that they were unable to enact an accurate reapportionment law because they were unwilling to inconvenience themselves or their seatmates, members of the Wisconsin Legislature defaulted to the State Supreme Court, which got it done.

Wyngaard

It may be that legislators, as politicians who have demonstrated that they can survive in the system of elective competition, are similarly incapable of reforming the election expenditure laws.

A modest little bill with some improvements over the ineffectual present regulatory system was reported out by an interim study of the unfinished items of business on the calendar of the 1967 Legislature, now in recess.

It may be that the lawmakers will decide to take up the measure and make it law when they return in the fall. But scarcely anybody believes that they will. Moreover, the bill, whatever its merits, misses the major issue involved — which is the uncontrolled and often inaccurately reported use of money to win elections. The consensus appears to be that a system which has permitted them to prosper can't be all bad. Thus the problem of inflated campaign costs will grow and sooner or later will explode into a scandal.

THE ODOR PERSISTS

Old friend Roscoe Drummond, one of the distinguished Washington correspondents, in a discussion of the censure of Sen. Dodd which involved the misappropriation of easily gathered campaign contributions, recently observed that "there is something rotting in American politics and now is the time to clean it out."

"We will be getting absolutely nowhere if we are satisfied to slap a few politicians on the wrist and fail to rewrite the laws which make such violations possible, even inevitable," he wrote out of a knowledge derived from a professional lifetime of reporting political affairs.

But he has very little more confidence in the willingness of the politicians who must take such decisions to take them than this observer in Madison, whose long concern on this subject may be recalled by some readers.

Like the members of the Wisconsin Legislature, the politicians at Washington are content with matters as they stand As Mr. Drummond noted, over the last decade they have turned down or ignored 18 separate proposals to rewrite the election spending laws. A count of the Wisconsin Legislature's reactions to the issue, expressed in state legislative proposals, would be about the same.

DISTURBED BY IMPLICATIONS

There ahe men in the Wisconsin Capitol who are disturbed about the implications of the vastly increasing money requirements of parties and candidates. But they appear to have been discouraged, or perhaps intimidated, by the indifference of their associates and party leaders. There are men in Washington who are worried too, as one of them has shown in a recent national magazine article.

No facet of American life, wrote a respected seven-term member of the Congress, cries out more for reform "than the dingy gray area of political campaign financing."

"The price of campaigning has risen so high that it actually imperils the integrity he said.

President Johnson has recently talked about financing presidential campaigns of the parties out of federal funds, an idea that was originated with President Theodore Roosevelt before the present President was born. It may be supported in the Congress, although it does not seem likely. But it would not touch all of the other election campaign financing pressures of the country, including the election of state legislatures and governors whose independence and freedom of action and integrity ars as vital to free society as are those qualities in Washington.

Somehow it doesn't seem likely that local public funds will be used to pay for campaigns. The tentative gestures in that direction have been promptly laughted away.

Israeli Money Being Used in Jordan Area

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The latest evidence of how the crisis in the Middle East is still deepening, just two months after the war, is the introduction of Israeli currency into the economy of the west bank of the Jordan River.

That fertile land belonged to the Hashemite kingdom of Jordan when the war started. In the six-day conflict, it fell intact to Israel—and Israel has refused to consider returning it to Jordan, along with other occupied land, until the Arab countries end their state of belligerency with Israel and accept Israel's independence.

Now, however, the unannounced decision to make Israeli currency legal tender in the west bank region is the strongest indication yet that Israel will never return the west bank to Jordan, just as Israel has publicly said it will never return Jerusalem.

Novak

Evans

This doesn't mean Israel intends to keep the west bank as part of Israel. That might happen, of course, but a likelier conclusion is that the west bank will end up as a semi-connected part of Israel, with a relationship something like the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the United States.

The obvious implication of the currency move is that Israel wants to integrate the economy there with its own. Other steps toward that goal have already been taken by Jerusalem.

A footnote: The Soviet Union continues to replace Egypt's lost military equipment. Almost equal to 100 per cent of the losses suffered by Egypt in the war, have now arrived in Egypt, bringing its air force back to full strength.

As for tanks, the Soviet replacements now equal about 50 per cent of the Egyptian tanks lost in the war.

LINDSAY'S CONCERN

New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay, a Republican, and some other members of President Johnson's new Commission on Civil Disorders are concerned over evidence that the White House intends to dominate the commission's work.

Top staff aides to the commission were handpicked by the White House starting with David Ginsburg (the hard-working Washington lawyer who turned down President Johnson's offer to become Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs in 1966.)

Neither Lindsay nor other members blame the White House for wanting a voice in staffing the commission, but they're worried about indications that the staff will find itself taking orders from the White House and not from the commission.

Moreover, Lindsay aides say frankly they don't see how a fulltime mayor of the nation's largest city can take a full two days a week off the job. Governor Otto Kerner of Illinois, the Democratic chairman of the committee, has the same problem but it is not nearly so acute.

Consequently, Lindsay is now looking for a deputy to sit in for him at commission hearings in Washington when he can't attend. The commission plans to meet two full days this week, as it did last, and probably it will continue that schedule for several weeks.

Although Mr. Johnson called for an interim report from the commission by March, members now say the first report will be out far ahead of that date.

MORTON, DEWEY, LBJ

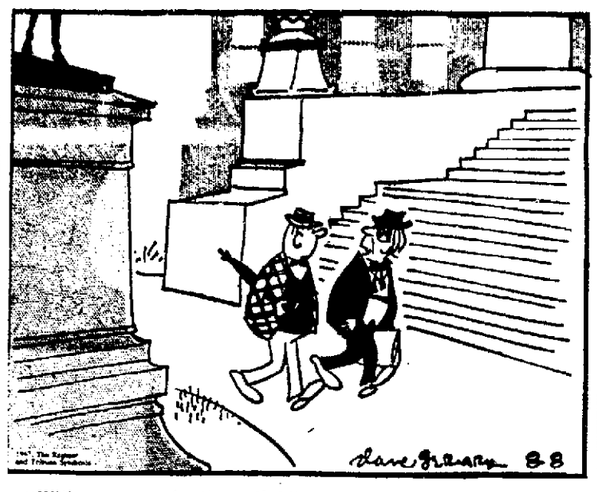

Before making his stern criticism of the Republican Coordinating Committee for blaming the Detroit riot on President Johnson, and of President Johnson for his "equivocation" on sending troops, Senator Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, the former Republican National Chairman, telephoned Thomas E. Dewey. Dewey was the main drafter of the top-level statement by the Coordinating Committee.

Morton told Dewey he could not subscribe to the harshly partisan language in the anti-Johnson statement. Moreover, said Morton, he was going to publicly criticize the committee the next day—Thursday.

Dewey gave a lame reply. Anyone who knew President Johnson, said Dewey, knew that the President would try to take political advantage of Governor Romney's predicament in Detroit. Therefore, it was only fair that the Republicans get in their own licks against the President first.

A footnote: Within hours of Morton's statement criticizing both his own party and the President., Mr. Johnson telephoned Morton and complained bitterly about his old friend Thruston attacking him that way. Morton replied that he could hardly be expected to criticize his own party and not the Democrats. That seemed to pacify the President, an old pro who understands the laws of politics.

Judge Orders Examination in Burglary Case

John J. Befort, 25, 310 N. Appleton St., charged with burglarizing Kinney Shoe Store, 104 E. College Ave., July 21, was ordered committed Monday to Central State Hospital for a mental examination.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered the commitment following a summary examination which saw testimony by Befort's court-appointed attorney, who had asked for an examination for his client, and by Lt. Robert Frailing of the Appleton Police Department.

Judge Keller ordered further court proceedings against Befort postponed indefinitely.

Forrestal To Head for Naval Yard

MANILA (AP) — The aircraft carrier Forrestal is tentatively scheduled to leave Friday for repairs in the United States, probably at the Norfolk, Va., Navy yard, a spokesman at the Subic Bay naval base said Monday. The spokesman said the death toll in the disastrous fire aboard the carrier had risen from 131 to 132, presumably because an injured man had died, while one crewman previously reported missing had turned up and the number of missing was now two.

He said minor repairs such as patching of some of the holes on the flight deck were being rushed so the ship could depart. Although the fire and bomb explosions caused vast destruction in the after part of the ship, her main engines and steering mechanism were not affected and she made the trip from Vietnam to the Philippines at 27 knots.

Burglar Caught With Eggs on His Face

BADEN, Austria (AP) — Seventy luxurious houses were burgled. In each the refrigerator was opened and the raw eggs were eaten. Police checked their criminal files until they found a man noted for a strong liking for eggs. They arrested him.

Man Charged With Desertion Free on Bond

Kenneth D. Wildt, 28, 403 Beaume Ave., Kaukauna, charged with deserting his wife and three children, was released from jail Monday on a $500 personal signature bond, pending a temporary support order made by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Wildt, who has a court-appointed attorney, was in jail under $2,500 bond following his arraignment Aug. 2. The court was informed Monday that Mrs. Wildt had started divorce proceedings.

Judge Keller ordered Wildt to pay half of his net paycheck to the clerk of courts office for support of his family. The case then was continued to Aug. 29.

Effective Pension Plan Helps Self-Employed

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Because of major liberalizations of the Keogh Act of 1962, to become effective starting with 1968, millions of you who are self-employed profesiosnals or businessmen may now find adopting a self-employed pension plan a most attractive way to provide for your retirement needs.

Porter

Monday's column gave you basic facts. Today's, written with the cooperation of the Research Institute of America, adds vital details.

Q. How do you set up a plan?

A. For most of you, the simple, practical thing to do is to tie in with an already existing plan. Many banks, insurance companies, mutual funds and professional organizations have set up master or prototype plans which have been approved by the Treasury as qualifying for the favorable tax treatment explained yesterday. To adopt such a plan, you file a one-page form with the local District Director of the Internal Revenue Service. The Treasury will then separately approve the plan for you.

Bond Purchases

Another simple move is to adopt a bond purchase plan. To do this, you merely file a one-page form with the Treasury.

Q. What if you want to set up a plan of your own?

A. You must go through the same cumbersome, difficult steps needed to set up a regular employe benefit plan and furnish all the information required by the Treasury. If you tie in with an approved master or prototype plan, most of these requirements will have been taken care of and you won't need to worry.

Q. When should you set up a plan?

A. If you're seeking the full tax reduction in 1968 and want to start to build tax-free earnings on your contribution as soon as possible. You might now start the process of joining a master or prototype plan or creating your own plan.

If you are in the 50 per cent tax bracket, the result of a tax-free buildup at 5 per cent within your pension fund is equal to a 10 per cent buildup outside the fund. Of course, this advantage will be reduced by the tax you must pay when the pension funds are distributed to you.

Q. Must you cover your regular employes?

A. Yes, if they have three years service—with one exception. This exception is for partnership plans which do not cover any partners with a more than 10 per cent interest.

Whether or not employes must be covered is a vital point in your decision on whether or not to set up a plan.

If you have several employes, the cost of providing coverage for them with a contribution of 10 per cent of their earnings more than offset the annual tax saving to you. The only way to be sure about this is to work out the projected figures.

Q. How do you invest the money you put in the plan?

A. You can buy annuity, endowment and retirement income policies directly from an insurance company or you can buy face amount certificates (like annuities) from an investment company. Or you can set up a custodial account with a bank which will then invest your account either in annuities or in mutual funds. Or you can put the funds into a trust and if a bank is the trustee, it can then place the funds in various types of permissible investments. Or you can buy a special U.S. Retirement Plan bonds. If you want a particular type of investment, you must shop around to find it.

No Penalty

Q. When can retirement benefits be paid out?

A. Most self-employed persons cannot draw benefits before age 59½ without incurring a penalty. Benefits must be distributed starting with the year in which the self-employed person reaches age 70½.

Q. What are some pros and cons?

A. If you are a successful self-employed person who has no employes with three years of service, the odds are you'll find a pension plan an excellent idea.

If you have employes, you must calculate the tax angles with utmost care. If you are in a lower income bracket, the tax benefits will be much less attractive. If you are a young professional or businessman, freezing funds for your retirement 30 or more years away can be a great burden.

Do this: check all the aspects applying to you with a qualified authority and-or an institution offering a self-employed retirement plan. Do it in light of the liberalized law.
